THREE BADGER MAYORS TRAIL FOES AT POLLS

Herzog Leads Armstrong After Hot Battle in Racine Primary Vote

SOCIALIST RUNS STRONG Sheboygan Mayor Outstrips Three Other Candidates for Office

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Encouraged by sizable pluralities in the primaries, opponents of mayors in three of Wisconsin's larger cities today prepared to carry their fights to the very eve of the elections to be held April 7.

Another city—Sheboygan—the incumbent topped the list of candidates, Mayor Herman Schuelke polling 2,746 votes against 2,361 for Otto Goussenhauer. They outstripped the other two candidates with ease.

George H. Herzog, Democrat, gave notice that Mayor William H. Armstrong, Republican, is in for a final fight in Racine. The former tallied 8,033 votes while Armstrong counted 5,393—2,740 down to the man who is leading the attempt to oust him.

One of the most surprising features of the Racine balloting was the support given William J. Svoboda, Socialist mayoral candidate. He polled 2,060, the largest Socialist vote recorded there in years.

Armstrong, center of a heated controversy between the City council and the school board, and the target of charges of using his official position for the advancement of a private business enterprise in which he is alleged to be interested, saw his power tottering as one of his aldermanic supporters was eliminated in the primaries and eight others were running second to opposition candidates.

Andrew Peterson of the Ninth ward, failed of renomination. He had supported Armstrong's administration.

Baxter Leads at Superior
Fred A. Baxter, mayor of Superior for 11 years, made good in the first step of his attempted political comeback by outstripping Mayor George G. Dietrich, to whom he lost in 1929. They will renew their contest next month. Baxter polled 4,874 votes to Dietrich's 4,230. The two other candidates, Charles Wildner and George Kane, finished in order, far in the rear.

Baxter retired from politics two years ago when defeated by Dietrich. Two years before, he was the object of a recall movement in connection with a change in the system of the city's government. He carried the controversy to the state supreme court, but lost.

Mayor John E. Langdon of La Crosse, and Joseph J. Verchotta, whom he defeated in the last election will resume their political feud April 7. Both were nominated yesterday. Langdon received 2,351 votes to Verchotta's 3,044. The comparatively few votes cast for the two opponents classed them as also-rans.

Emerging from a field of 14 candidates, the largest to seek office since the commission form of government was adopted in Fond du Lac, Paul W. Thiel, incumbent, and Albert Huelsman will match votes in three weeks hence for the office of city commissioner. Thiel counted 1,298 votes yesterday, and Huelsman 1,103.

Office-seekers entered the Sheboygan primary in force for the post of municipal judge, but since only two could be nominated nine were disappointed. The laurels went to E. H. Fuhr, for whom 2,438 ballots were cast, and A. Matt Wagner, who received 1,216. The Rev. Herman Struening, who retired from the ministry to take up salesmanship and followed with a bid for political recognition, finished ninth with 223 votes.

Three judges of the Milwaukee courts appeared renominated. They were George E. Page of the district court, and August E. Braun of the circuit court, and Michael F. Blenski of the civil court.

Mayor Martin Gorgenson of Manitowish received in the running for his fifth term in that office by polling 1,323 votes against 962 votes cast for Alderman Peter M. Anderson.

In the majority report, Senators Herman Severson, Iola, and Eugene Clifford, Juneau, recommended that further action of the case be left to the attorney general and the district attorney of Dane co. Prosecution of those believed guilty was also recommended.

Death Of Chief Oshkosh Renews Tribal Dispute

Eldest Son Expected to Contest Succession Claims of Princess Alice

Keshena Falls—(AP)—Chief Reginald Oshkosh, 63, last grandson of the famous leader of the Menominee Indians, Chief Oshkosh, was dead today, but across his bier the two-year-old controversy over leadership of the tribe continued.

Chief Reginald died yesterday after an illness of two years. He was afflicted with rheumatism. He was a graduate of Carleton Institute and was an authority on Indian folklore. He was a son of Neopit, eldest son of the old Chief Oshkosh.

Reginald's claims to highest authority in his tribe were disputed by Princess Alice Oshkosh, daughter of Neopit's brother Ernest, who reigned over the Menomonees after Neopit's death. Chief Ernest died in 1929. Alice contended that under tribal law the reigning chief had the privilege of naming a member of his own family as his successor. She claims she was her father's choice.

The tribe was split in two factions by the controversy, which seemed no nearer solution today, for the possibility was seen that Chief Reginald's eldest son would claim the right of succession. The faction headed by Alice reiterated their acceptance of her leadership.

The Menomonees law, which would settle once and for all the claims of both factions, was destroyed by fire several years ago. Both sides now must rely on memory of tribal tradition in arguing their claims.

Huron H. Smith, curator of botany at the Milwaukee Public Museum and an authority on Wisconsin Indian history, said last night he believed Princess Alice holds the stronger claim.

Negroes And Police Clash During Riot

150 Longshoremen Arrested in New Orleans in Strike Controversy

New Orleans—(AP)—Negro longshoremen, on strike along the New Orleans waterfront, fired on policemen today during a riot in which 150 arrests were made.

None was reported wounded by bullets but several persons were treated for minor injuries received in the clash.

Those arrested were charged with offenses ranging from loitering and disturbing the peace to carrying concealed weapons and violating a federal injunction against disorderly conduct in the strike. Weapons were taken from a score of prisoners.

Police said the Negroes, part of the group of river front workers which went on strike about a month ago in protest against a wage cut of 15 cents an hour by four steamship companies, met after midnight at a hall and formed a marching body of about 200 which headed for the river. Officers said the marchers intended to intimidate strike-breakers who are taken on guarded tugs each morning to the ships being worked in the harbor.

The marchers were sighted at a distance by the detail of dock police. The officers called out the riot squad and all available police from precincts throughout the city were concentrated at the river front.

Arriving at the docks shortly before dawn, the marchers were met by the police who ordered the crowd to disperse. Retreating to neighboring streets, the Negroes broke up into small groups, hissing and booing the police. Snipers at strategic points then opened fire on the officers, withholding fire, rushed into the crowd to make arrests, disarming several members of the mob and rounding up the small groups in patrol wagons.

WOMAN LEADER DIES AT RESULT OF FALL

Green Bay—(AP)—Mrs. Nathalie C. Greene, 75, prominent in social and civic affairs here for a half a century, died today from effects of a fall. A daughter of Nathaniel Clapp, late Kenosha pioneer, she came here with her husband, the late Attorney Griswold Greene. She was a charter member of the Green Bay Woman's club and first president of the Associated Charities serving in that office from 1939 to 1955 when she became president.

Her sister, the wife of Judge Samuel Hastings, Green Bay, survives.

HOLD THREE IN ALLEGED ASSASSINATION PLOT

Denver—(AP)—Four men were held today in connection with an alleged plot to assassinate three members of the district attorney's office. They were arrested in raids last night.

Earl Wettengel, district attorney, said the conspirators contemplated the slaying of Ray Humphreys, chief investigator; Hugh M. Woods, deputy district attorney, and Stanley Maus, an investigator.

Wettengel said machine guns had been imported for the proposed triple murder. He said plans for the slaying first were formulated at a "booleggers' convention" here last January because of activities of his office against liquor merchants.

NOT FIRST DEGREE MURDER

Nice, France—(AP)—Magistrate Vacher indicated today at the close of his first examination of Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nixon-Nirdlinger that the former St. Louis beauty would not be charged with first degree murder for the slaying of her husband in their apartment here a week ago.

GUNFIRE HEARD WITHIN WALLS OF INSTITUTION

Prison in Flames as Disorders Break Out Anew

Joliet, Ill.—(AP)—Stateville prison was afire this afternoon, and rioting and gunfire were heard within the walls.

Warden Henry C. Hill, speeding to the new penitentiary from his office in the old prison across the river after an alarm, found the prison in flames and disorder within.

Newspapermen were ejected from the gates by armed guards. They heard rioting and shooting.

Nathan Leopold, Jr., one of the two boy slayers of Bobby Franks, had just arrived at Stateville with a group of 19 prisoners being transferred from the other prison when the rioting began. The convicts were safely brought within the gates.

The outbreak was the second major disturbance in the twin penitentiaries in a week, two convicts having been killed and two shot at the 75-year-old stone prison last Saturday.

The Stateville prison was acclaimed one of the world's finest penal institutions when completed about seven years ago. Its four cheese-box cell houses are grouped about a central, circular dining hall, connected by covered passageways. It was constructed of concrete and stone blocks, and was regarded as being thoroughly fireproof.

Warden Hill called for the state militia this afternoon. The northern Illinois regiments have been under orders to be ready for emergency since Saturday's uprising, and should be in Joliet by tonight.

Word came from the prison that the dining hall, kitchen and laundry were destroyed by the flames. Structures alone survived, everything within being charred ruins.

The walls of the penitentiary swarmed with armed guards, and a sinister thunder of shots from the convicts was punctuated by the sharp bark of guns from the towers.

Scores of highway and city police surrounded the prison, guarding against any escape.

Billows of smoke rose above the walls and the flare of the burning buildings could be seen from outside.

One newspaperman who managed to get within the prison walls saw 50 guards into a mob of 100 rioting convicts, tossing tear gas bombs before them and driving the prisoners into their cells. Not a shot was fired by the charging guards, and so far as is known no one has been killed or wounded.

KENTUCKY FARMER ASKS PRESIDENT TO LEND HIM $100

Washington—(AP)—A Kentucky farmer needing cash to make his next crop would like to borrow $100 from President Hoover.

In a letter to the president he offered a lumber stand of 200 pine and poplar trees "and three times that amount in ash," as security, so he can "make my family something to live on."

Furthermore, he wrote the president that "if you don't believe I have got timber you can send any man you want to come and count the trees." He added the loan would be a great accommodation to him and "will make you safe."

No 'Economic Shell Shock' In Business, Klein States

Detroit, Mich.—(AP)—Business men were described today by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, as free from "economic shell shock" and "panicky psychology," while business climbs upward.

Depression has reached or passed its bottom, Dr. Klein told the Detroit Board of Commerce, although "we may bump along" for a while in returning to higher trade levels.

"We have had enough of arm-waving hysteria, whether in a delirium of joy or despair," he added. "Business has, mentally speaking, stepped off the swooping roller coaster and is basing its plans on the solid realities."

"The available statistical record for February shows that business in that month underwent a normal seasonal improvement from the low levels of January. This is pretty good evidence that the long decline has at last been halted and that an appreciable degree of recovery is in sight."

"The probability that the worst of the depression is behind us is not to be understood as foreshadowing a sharp and sustained advance from present levels back to normal. A brisk, spectacular ascending spurt might not be an unlikely event, even in the rather unlikely event that it should come."

"We are in the convalescent stage after a prolonged economic illness. We should be well satisfied, I think, if our improvement is gradual at first lest we suffer another relapse. In all conservatism I may say that, unless important breaks should occur in the security or commodity markets, it seems likely that activity in the second quarter of the present year will slightly exceed that of the first quarter and that business in the fall will be unmistakably on the upgrade."

Klein cited increasing output of automobiles, enlarging orders for cotton goods and increased industrial employment during February as signs of betterment, while he added that "promising political developments in Europe and the Far East have also a significant bearing on the situation."

CASHMAN GAS TAX MEASURE WINS IN HOUSE

Four-cent Gasoline Levy Passed 63-32; Rules Are Suspended

BLANCHARD BILL FAILS Power and Gas Projects Certain to Get Governor's O. K.

Madison—(AP)—The Cashman highway bill, providing for a 4-per cent gasoline tax and intended to give jobs to from 6,000 to 10,000 men, was passed by the assembly today with minor amendments. The vote was 63 to 32 after Progressives succeeded in putting through their demand for a suspension of the rules. The bill must now be sent to the senate for concurrence in the amendments. It then goes to the governor for his signature.

In addition to raising the gasoline tax, the bill repeals the personal property tax. The measure was backed by the administration and constituted its chief stroke for the relief of unemployment. The unemployed would be aided by means of a grade crossing elimination program designed to remove from 60 to 80 crossings.

Madison—(AP)—The LaFollette administration achieved an outstanding victory today when the senate passed the much-discussed power district bill. The vote was 13 to 15 and came under suspension of the rules.

The bill was then sent to the assembly where early concurrence is predicted. The lower house is overwhelmingly controlled by the administration, but in the senate there has long been apprehension over the fate of the measure.

The roll call was as follows: Yes—Anderson, Cashman, Clifford, Duncan, Fellenz, Fons, Hunt, Koppel, Loomis, Miller, Nelson, Olson, Polakowski, Roberts, Rush, Severson, Smith and Zantow. Total 18.

Noes—Barker, Blanchard, Boldt, Carroll, Daggett, Edwards, Gettelman, Goodland, Hall, Melhigan, Morris, Mueller, Roethe, Shearer and White. Total 15.

The vote on passage was preceded by a vote to reject Sen. George Blanchard's substitute amendment. The roll call on this was also 13 to 15, with the same lineup as on the original bill.

Provisions of Bill
Under the power district bill, which was introduced by Sen. O. E. Loomis, Mauston, municipalities which own public utility plants may form power districts to effect cooperation in the generation, distribution and sale of light, heat and power. Such districts may be formed only after a referendum vote of the people who are residents of the proposed district and upon approval of the railroad commission.

By means of power districts, municipally-owned plants may be hooked up for more efficient operation and less cost of production. The plan calls for the eventual tieup of all municipally-owned plants into a state network. Proponents of the bill contend that only through mass production will municipally-owned plants be able to cut rates and compete effectively with private utilities which now are hooked up in a statewide system.

The Blanchard substitute proposed to change the methods of financing power districts. Under his bill the district would be unable to levy taxes for the operation of plants or for the payment of bonded indebtedness. He contended that the state ill-funged out a huge public debt if no restriction is placed on the taxing power of the districts.

The passage was the culmination of five hours of discussion. The upper house debated the measure for four hours last night, and then spent an hour more today before the vote was taken.

GREEN BAY BOOSTS POPULATION BY 1,500

Green Bay—(AP)—The population of the city of Green Bay was increased today by some 1,500 persons as the result of the expiration of the 90-day period before adoption of the ordinance annexing two sections of Proboscis township. It was estimated the city was added $1,350,000 richer, two manufacturing plants, a school and several hundred homes having been added within the boundaries.

INDUSTRIES REPORT EMPLOYMENT GAINS

Washington—(AP)—The bureau of labor statistics has found that manufacturing interests in the United States during February increased their total of persons employed 1.4 per cent above January.

An announcement today said these industries had increased their wage payments in the same period 7.5 per cent, but other lines of gainful occupation had not shown a like advance.

INQUIRE INTO ALLEGED TORTURE OF PRISONERS

Nashville, Tenn.—(AP)—The general assembly turned today to investigating a report of its committee of penal institutions that seven prisoners were being handcuffed and suspended from pegs on the wall of the state penitentiary here.

The committee also reported that conditions in the state prison at Brushy Mountain were similar to those "in Siberian prisons under the old Russian regime," and that a fire there might result in a tragedy "the like of which has probably never been seen in an American prison."

Suspending of women from pegs was admitted by the warden of the penitentiary, the committee said. One woman told the committee that she had been suspended from a peg for ten hours.

No individuals were blamed for the situation at Brushy Mountain, the committee laying the responsibility on the "state policy."

Three Lose Lives When Fire Wrecks Hotel In Massachusetts

4 CRITICALLY BURNED, OVER FIFTY ESCAPE

Early Morning Flames Rout Guests—Loss Estimated at $200,000

Lynn, Mass. — (AP) — Three men were burned to death and guests and firemen injured in an early morning fire that wrecked the Hotel Lenox. Five guests were hurt, four being burned seriously, as flames swept upward, through the interior of the five-story brick building.

The dead have been identified as Arthur M. Young, 50, of Lynn and St. Albans, Vt.; Arthur Harvey, 47, day clerk of the hotel; and Martin Travers of Lynn, a factory foreman. The identification of Travers was made tentatively after policemen and firemen determined that no one else was missing.

The four guests seriously burned were Florence Curdo, Frank Nelson, Lottie Clifford and Mrs. Mabel Eaton, all of Lynn.

The fire started in a miniature golf course in the first floor. In the rooms above, fire and police officials estimated there were more than 50 persons, guests and employees of the hotel.

The cause of the fire was undetermined. The loss was estimated at possibly $200,000.

Dramatic scenes were enacted in the early morning darkness as the flames shot upward through the hotel. At the rear of the hotel, firemen spread life nets and some of the guests saved themselves by leaping into them.

Others made their way onto fire escapes and clambered down as far as the second floor where they were rescued by firemen. Others leaped from the second floor, suffering cuts and bruises.

Firemen and policemen removed many by interior stairways and an elevator that could be operated for a time up to the third floor. Firemen continued their search for other possible victims.

The dispute over the leadership of the Menominee Indian tribe continues despite the death yesterday of Reginald Oshkosh, (center) claimant of the title, which occurred at his home at Keshena. Pictured with their father is Oshkosh's eldest son, Roland, 35, who now claims the title of chief, and his daughter, "Lady of the Dawn."

Oshkosh, long afflicted by rheumatism, died from tuberculosis and a combination of other diseases. For a number of years he operated a concession stand at Keshena Falls during the summer and spent his winters in Chicago.

$50,000 FIRE LOSS AT RED GRANITE

Four Fire Departments Battle Four Hours to Check Flames

Red Granite — (AP) — The R. L. Evans clothing store and the Tice's department store were destroyed and the newspaper plant was damaged by fire here early today which caused damage estimated between $50,000 and $60,000.

Combined efforts of the Oshkosh, Lohrville and Wautoma fire departments, and local volunteers, checked the flames about four hours after Fred Hase, night marshal, turned in the alarm. The fire was believed to have originated in the jewelry shop operated by Otto Lundberg in the Evans building.

While volunteer firemen raised a ladder to a second story window to provide an emergency exit, Mrs. Harold F. Jansen, telephone operator, formerly of Princeton, Wis., aided from neighboring cities. The telephone exchange was threatened by the flames.

Three scores firemen, including Chief Ben Bauman, were endangered when the brick walls of the Tice building fell.

DECLINE SHOWN FIRST DAY OF TAX PAYMENTS

Drop of $5,000,000 in Federal Income Tax Compared With Day in 1930

Washington — (AP) — The first day's collections of income tax on the 1930 income dropped $5,000,000 as compared to the first day of a year ago. The tax report Monday, March 16, was $18,100,362 as compared with $23,100,362 last year on March 15.

The decrease, however, was not accepted by treasury officials as indicative of the general trend the collections will take. The amount covered only that portion of income tax for which checks had been deposited before 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Due to March 15 falling on Sunday, taxpayers had until midnight Monday to make returns and officials felt it would be impossible to gauge the flow of income until reports for the remainder of the week have been received.

Monday payments brought the income tax collections for the month to $58,124,904.35 as compared with $57,507,952 for the same period last year. For the fiscal year, the collections have totaled $1,220,555,929 as compared with $1,320,142,103 in the 1930 fiscal year.

The close of business on March 16, the treasury had a deficit of $437,515,713, having collected $2,206,362,119 and having spent $2,643,877,832.

The collections compared with $2,492,889,964 in the same period of the preceding fiscal year and the expenditures compared with $2,732,717,155.

In addition to the drop in income tax collections, customs collections for the present fiscal year have dropped to $274,331,039 as compared with $401,315,168 in the same period of last year. Miscellaneous receipts also declined to $493,087,056 from $441,253,119.

STOCK MARKET CRASH GOOD THING—LEVITAN

Milwaukee — (AP) — Solomon Levitan, state treasurer believes the stock market crash was "a good thing."

Speaking at a luncheon of the Milwaukee Kiwanis Club here today, the state treasurer pointed out that despite the depression, "we are still far ahead of 40 or 50 years ago." "In the main," he said, "I believe the stock market crash last year was a good thing. Too many of our people were becoming gamblers; nothing attracted them but easy money. Easy come, easy go. Such a condition is not wholesome, and tends to weaken enterprise. People must remain normal if we are to expect economic conditions to remain normal."

Solution of the present economic problems will come only after the majority of the people adjust themselves to new conditions," he said. He said he had no solution to offer for the alleviation of the depression but believed that its solution will bring about permanent good.

"The time involved will depend upon our ability to discover the underlying causes of the depression and our willingness to accept the cure when it is found," he said.

PUPILS FROM EIGHT CITIES ENTER ORATORY

One Winner from Each Municipality to Compete in State Contest

Eight Wisconsin cities have entered students in the National Oratorical contest, sponsored in this state by the Wisconsin Daily Newspaper league. One winner will compete in the state contest from each of the following cities: Appleton, Green Bay, Marshfield, Sheboygan, Wausau, Kenosha, Fond du Lac, and Janesville.

In each of these cities local newspapers are sponsoring the contest, paying the expenses of the individual winners to the state contest in Madison. Appleton is offering in addition cash prizes amounting to $100.

The Appleton Post-Crescent contest will be held Friday night, April 10, in Appleton high school auditorium. Most of the other contests will be held earlier. The winner will be sent to Madison for the state finals on April 24.

The winner in the state finals will go to Kansas City to participate in the semi-finals. High school students will gather from all the states into seven groups for the semi-finals. The semi-final cities include Kansas City, Washington, New York city, Chicago, Los Angeles, Springfield, Mass., and Birmingham, Ala. Since the speakers who are to take part in these zone meetings will have been selected by the middle of April the semi-finals will be held around May 15. The seven winners of these contests will be sent to Washington to compete in the national contest and will win a free trip to Europe.

Similar cups will be awarded to the first three place winners in the Wisconsin contest. Ralph S. Kingsley, president of the Wisconsin Daily Newspaper league, will present cups to the fourth and fifth place winners. The contest is open to both boys and girls enrolled in high school. The subject of the oratorical competition is the Constitution of the United States.

It Is Said--

That the Appleton police department is investigating the disappearance of three "spring opening" signs from lamp poles on E. College-ave during the past week. It is believed several students with artistic temperaments purloined the signs to add to the decorations now in their rooms. The "cut out" figures used for the opening cost the chamber of commerce retail division approximately $8 each.

That all the babies in town must have been on the street Saturday afternoon. With the exception of an occasional break at intersections, it almost looked like the baby carriages were lining up end to end in an attempt to form a blockade.

Open Season For Trout Is Only Few Weeks Off

BY B. A. CLAFLIN

I wonder if you anglers realize as keenly as I do that the open season for brook trout is but a few weeks off. It will be here before we know it. Fishing for these beautiful fish should be unusually good at the opening of the season this year, because of the fact that there is very little water to raise the streams over their banks as so frequently happens. There is no snow in the north country, and unless we get an unprecedented amount of rain between now and the first of May, conditions are going to be ideal. Matters balance up in nature in the long run, and without doubt we shall have plenty of rain during April and May. And that means that trout fishing will be as good as it ordinarily is. If we do not have this rain the streams will be too low and the fish will seek the cold spring holes much earlier than they ordinarily would. However, I do not believe we need fear that.

Were it not for the outlet I have through the medium of the newspaper I think I should have to get out of the business for the reason that the inquiries that would come to me would force me to do nothing else but answer them. As it is, I receive many each week and those are all replied to.

I have just received several letters asking for something definite on the trout streams in Langlade County. While I am sending those who wrote me personal letters of reply, I am setting forth in this article the crux of what I told them. I hope it helps others who may desire to go to that region during May.

I believe few people know how many trout streams there are in Langlade County. It takes considerable prowling around up there to get acquainted with all of them as I have done. Note the list:

The following streams go to make up the 900 miles of trout streams in Langlade County. Surely from such a list we should all be able to pick out a good place to go for our favorite sport this coming season:

Big Evergreen, Drew Creek, the Eau Claire, Embarras, Haymeadow, Kennedy Creek, McCloud's Creek, Moose Creek, the Prairie, the Pine, the Red, Steffen's Creek, Thompson's Creek, Spring Brook River, W. Branch of the Wolf River, Deerbrook, W. Branch of the Eau Claire, Anderson's Creek, N. Branch of the Hunting, Pullack Creek, Buck's Creek and Elton Creek.

In addition to the above named streams there are the following lakes that have brook trout in them:

Buck's Lake, Demlow's Lake, Go-to-it Lake, Gartske's Lake, Kelecheant's Lake, Maxwell's Lake, Rabe's Lake, Rolland Lake, and others that do not even appear on any map, but which anyone in the region will gladly direct you to.

Many of these waters contain both the Speckled and the Rainbow trout, while the Evergreen, Thompson's Lake, Deerbrook river, the Hunting and the Wolf have also Browns. I will be glad to furnish you further information on any particular one of these waters.

Storm Hampers Rescuers' Efforts To Find Viking Survivors

124 SAVED FROM DEATH; SCORE STILL MISSING

Frissell and Penrod Yet Unreported — Hope for Rescue Wanes

St. Johns, N. F. — (AP)—A storm whipping across Nova Scotia today played a world seeking definite word concerning the fate of the sealing ship Viking and its company of 144.

A brief wireless dispatch said three men had been picked up from an ice floe by the sealer, Boethic, bringing the list of those known to have been saved to 124. Three others, including Harry Sargent, Boston explorer, were picked up last night by the steamer Sagona after they had all but despaired of rescue.

Those saved by the Boethic today were "Johnson, Kean and Best," according to the wireless word. They are believed to be W. Johnson, master-watch of Copley Bay, Alfred Kean, mate of Brookfield, N. E., and a Newfoundland known only as Best who was assisting the three Americans—Varick Frissell, New York, A. G. Penrod, New York, and Sargent—in the making of sound-movements among the sealers.

With these additional rescues the list of missing still numbering 20, including Frissell, Penrod, W. J. Roach, chief engineer, and three engineers, six firemen, seven sealers and one stowaway.

Bowling Brothers, Ltd., owners of the Viking which exploded and sank of La Barbe Island Sunday night, announced that ships of the sealing fleet to which the Viking belonged, had returned through Belle Isle Strait and were searching today through the waters in which the Vikings went down.

5 ALDERMEN AND 5 SUPERVISORS RENOMINATED

More Than 8,000 Votes Cast in Primary Election Yesterday

Heyden, Fifth; and Philipp Vogt, Sixth. Supervisors renominate were L. F. Bushey, First; P. H. Ryan, Second; T. H. Ryan, Third; Peter Rademacher, Fifth; and Fred Slevest, Sixth.

Most Incumbents Lead

The only instances where an incumbent polled less votes than his opponent were in the supervisory races in the Third and Fifth wards. George Hesser, with 378 votes, led T. H. Ryan by 24 votes, in the Third, and Marcus Baumgartner polled three votes more than Peter Rademacher in the Fifth. Names written in on the primary ballots resulted in the nomination of two new candidates for supervisor, J. Austin Hawes in the Second ward, and Gus Kranzsch in the Sixth.

In the Fifth and Sixth wards, where the race has been the hottest, both the incumbents led their nearest opponents by large margins. V. H. Vanderheyden polled 472 votes in the Fifth, with Wenzel Haasman following with 307. E. B. Rachow, the candidate endorsed by the Fifth Ward Voters club, trailed with 205 votes. In the supervisory race, Marcus Baumgartner with 323 votes, and Peter Rademacher with 320, were given places on the ticket. J. W. Doyle, the second candidate of the Fifth Ward Voters club, ran a close third with 303 votes. The total number of votes cast in the Fifth ward was 984.

Vogt Far Ahead

Philipp Vogt, Sixth ward incumbent, garnered more votes than his three opponents. He received 405 of the 780 votes cast, while his nearest opponent, Fred Wieser, a former alderman, secured a place on the ballot with 190 votes. The other candidates, L. C. Jens, and Paul Gebheim, were supported by 146 and 93 votes respectively. The election resulted in opposition for Fred Slevest, supervisor from the Sixth, when the name of Gus Kranzsch was written on nine ballots. Mr. Slevest received 274 votes.

In the Third ward, where the third highest number of votes, 766, were cast, W. H. Gmeiner, incumbent, received the support of 319 constituents. Frank Schwank, with 173 votes, was the second choice of the Third Warders, and Max Bauer ran a close third with 169 votes. Cornelius Grove trailed with 100 votes. In the supervisor race George Hesser led with 378 votes, and T. H. Ryan was renominated by 354 votes.

Davis, Giese Close

C. O. Davis and Ray E. Giese were nominated in the First ward, where George Packard, incumbent was not a candidate for reelection. Davis led with 244 votes and Giese followed with 217. Mark Catlin polled 147 votes, and Richard Van Wyk, 115. L. F. Bushey, present supervisor, was given 390 votes, and Otto Thies, incumbent, 304. The number of votes cast in the First ward was 723.

With 310 votes, R. F. McGowan, incumbent from the Fourth ward, was nominated with twice as many ballots as his nearest competitor, John Doro, who received 153 votes. Frank Winkler and Jerry Callahan, the other two aspirants, polled 74 and 54 votes respectively. In the supervisory race, Michael Jacobs received 247 votes, and John Dick 217. John Tracy, present supervisor, was not a candidate. Fourth warders cast 591 votes.

Earle, Williams Named

Oren Earle, incumbent, secured 194 of the 420 votes in the Second ward, where the vote was the lightest. E. L. Williams, who was given 144 votes will oppose Earle in the election in April. James Gerhart, with 82 votes ran third. The name of J. Austin Hawes was written on nine ballots, giving opposition to P. H. Ryan in the supervisory race. Mr. Ryan polled 119 votes.

The name of Axel Fahlsman for school commissioner was written on between 100 and 200 ballots yesterday, but an opinion from A. C. Bosser, city attorney, to Carl Becker, city clerk, today renders them worthless. Mr. Bosser based his opinion upon a recent opinion of the attorney general.

ROYALTON AND APPLETON MEN KILL SELVES

Benjamin Cabot, 47, Drinks Poison—Emil Stillman, 36, Hangs Himself

An Appleton man, Benjamin Cabot, 47, 1120 N. State-st., and a Royalton farmer, Emil Stillman, 36, took their own lives yesterday. Cabot died from drinking carbolic acid, while Stillman hung himself from a rafter in his barn.

Mystery surrounds Cabot's act and police this morning could ascribe no motive. Cabot stumbled into the vestibule of Theda Clark hospital shortly after 8:30 last night and collapsed on the floor. By the time physicians could reach him and make an examination, he was dead. They said that carbolic acid had caused death.

After an investigation Wednesday morning Police Chief C. H. Watts of Neenah said there would be no inquest. The chief said his investigation revealed that Cabot died from drinking carbolic acid, but the police were unable to find the bottle which contained the poison and it is not known where or where Cabot drank the fluid. Cabot's truck was found by police parked at the curbing at the corner of Racine and First-sts in Menasha. Cabot was a junk dealer.

Survivors are the widow; two daughters, Anita and Helen; one son, Norman, at home; one sister in New York, one in Poland, and a brother in Jerusalem. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Synagogue, with the Rev. A. Zussman in charge. Burial will be in Moses Montefiore cemetery. The body was taken from the Bretschneider funeral home to the residence Wednesday morning.

Brother Finds Body

Stillman was found hanging from a rafter in his barn, which is on Highway 44 a mile and a half south of Royalton, about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by his brother, William.

His brother, William, and family of Weyauwega, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Yost, of Waupaca had come to his home to make plans for taking him to a sanatorium. Stillman had been in ill health for several months.

Stillman was about to leave the house when his brother asked him where he was going. "Out to the barn," he was going to say. About a half hour later his brother, William, went out to the barn, where he found the body.

Sheriff Arthur Steenbock of Waupaca and Dr. A. M. Christopherson, who were summoned, pronounced Stillman's death a suicide.

He is survived by his widow and three children, Wallace, 7; Marion, 7; Eldred, 4; two sisters, Mrs. William Yost, Waupaca; Mrs. Lena Ganski, Philadelphia, Pa., and two brothers, William, Weyauwega and Louis, Milwaukee.

Funeral arrangements are pending the arrival of word from Mrs. Ganski in Philadelphia.

Gain In Physical Vigor Shown By College Girls

Ashland, Ohio — (AP)— Betty Coed of 1931 is a better girl physically than Betty Coed of 60 years ago. She weighs more, is taller, and has a greater lung capacity and chest girth.

This was revealed today by Dr. Edwin E. Jacobs, president of Ashland college, who during the last 15 years, has studied the physical measurements of the college girls.

In his analysis Dr. Jacobs used index figures, indicating for comparison the averages of the measurements. The figures are:

	50 Years Ago	Today
Weight	113.8	123.2
Height	153.5	161.6
Lung capacity	150.6	165.6
Chest girth	73.1	80.7

Dr. Jacobs' analysis indicated that the improvement has been steady.

"Physical vigor causes a life of increased vigor perhaps are:

"1. College girls may now be coming from a different stratum of society than formerly.

"2. Previous improved high school training in physical education may have its effect.

"3. General health conditions of all homes are better than formerly.

"4. It may also be that the general physical vigor of this part of the population is improving.

"5. Or it may be that more vigorous and robust girls are setting out for college rather than the weaker ones, for there can be no doubt but that modern college life appeals more and more to the vigorous girl."

Dr. Jacobs made his study to determine whether "the old saw that 'we are growing weaker and wiser' was true."

Aside from war, which if unresisted will lead the race to the very verge of extinction, we are told there is soft living which is deleterious on our health," he said.

"The frontier with its rigour, no longer acts as a selective agency as once it did, and with improved methods in surgery and with hospitals everywhere, the ill and unfit are being kept alive and allowed to reproduce. Moreover, as charity is now administered the struggle for existence is not allowed to weed out the unfit."

"Added to this we are told that our modern food is so poorly adapted to our needs that good teeth are impossible. All this is said to react unfavorably upon our physical vigor."

It appears from his study, Dr. Jacobs said, "that at least as far as college girls are concerned, we need have no fear as to their decline in physical vigor."

HEATED SESSION ANTICIPATED BY COMMON COUNCIL

Proposed Paving of S. Oneida-st Expected to Be Discussed

A long session, loaded with dynamite, is anticipated by the common council at its meeting tonight. Three or four subjects destined to strike fire are on the docket, besides a long list of routine matters.

The question of the paving of S. Oneida-st., held over from the last meeting upon the request of C. J. Wassenberg, Fourth ward alderman, may take a new turn tonight. Mr. Wassenberg has been conferring with the railroad commission on the matter of the removal of tracks by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company, and tonight, after reading a letter from the commission, he will argue against any attempt to force property owners to pay any share of the expense of paving the street.

There will be some opposition to the transfer of Wisconsin-ave into the local business district, although it is felt that there are enough members of the council in favor of the move to result in the adoption of the ordinance. The junk ordinance, after another revision, will again be up for vote.

Although prepared to make his report to the council on prices paid by the city, W. H. Vanderheyden may not be able to attend the council meeting because of the critical condition of his mother, who is near death at her home in Oconto. However, if Mr. Vanderheyden is present at the meeting, his report may precipitate a heated argument.

The primary election votes will be canvassed at the meeting.

WALTON BEGINS HIS COMEBACK IN OKLAHOMA

Former Governor One of Two Nominees for Mayor of Oklahoma City

Oklahoma City — (AP) — John Calhoun Walton was returning today to the political ladder from which he was hurled by the Oklahoma legislature in 1923.

The former governor, impeached and ousted from office and now under indictment on a charge of using the mails to defraud, was voted one of two nominees for mayor of Oklahoma City in a non-partisan municipal primary election yesterday.

He will enter the final election April 7 with C. J. Blinn, who received 8,361 votes to Walton's 8,158. Blinn's platform opposed the administration of Mayor Walter C. Dean, who trailed with three other candidates.

"Rarin Jack" Walton, making his comeback at 50, seeks return to the office he held prior to his short-lived term as governor. The mayorality is a step toward realization of his frustrated ambition to sit in the United States senate.

From the time of his entering public office as commissioner of public works here in 1916, no other figure in Oklahoma's history has faced such extremes of victories and defeats as "Rarin Jack." In 1922, he won the governorship by a majority of about 50,000 votes and less than a year afterward he was removed from office.

Blamed Ku Klux Klan Facing an attack he charged was led by the Ku Klux Klan, he placed the state under martial law. Public pressure later forced him to call the special session of the legislature, at which he was ousted.

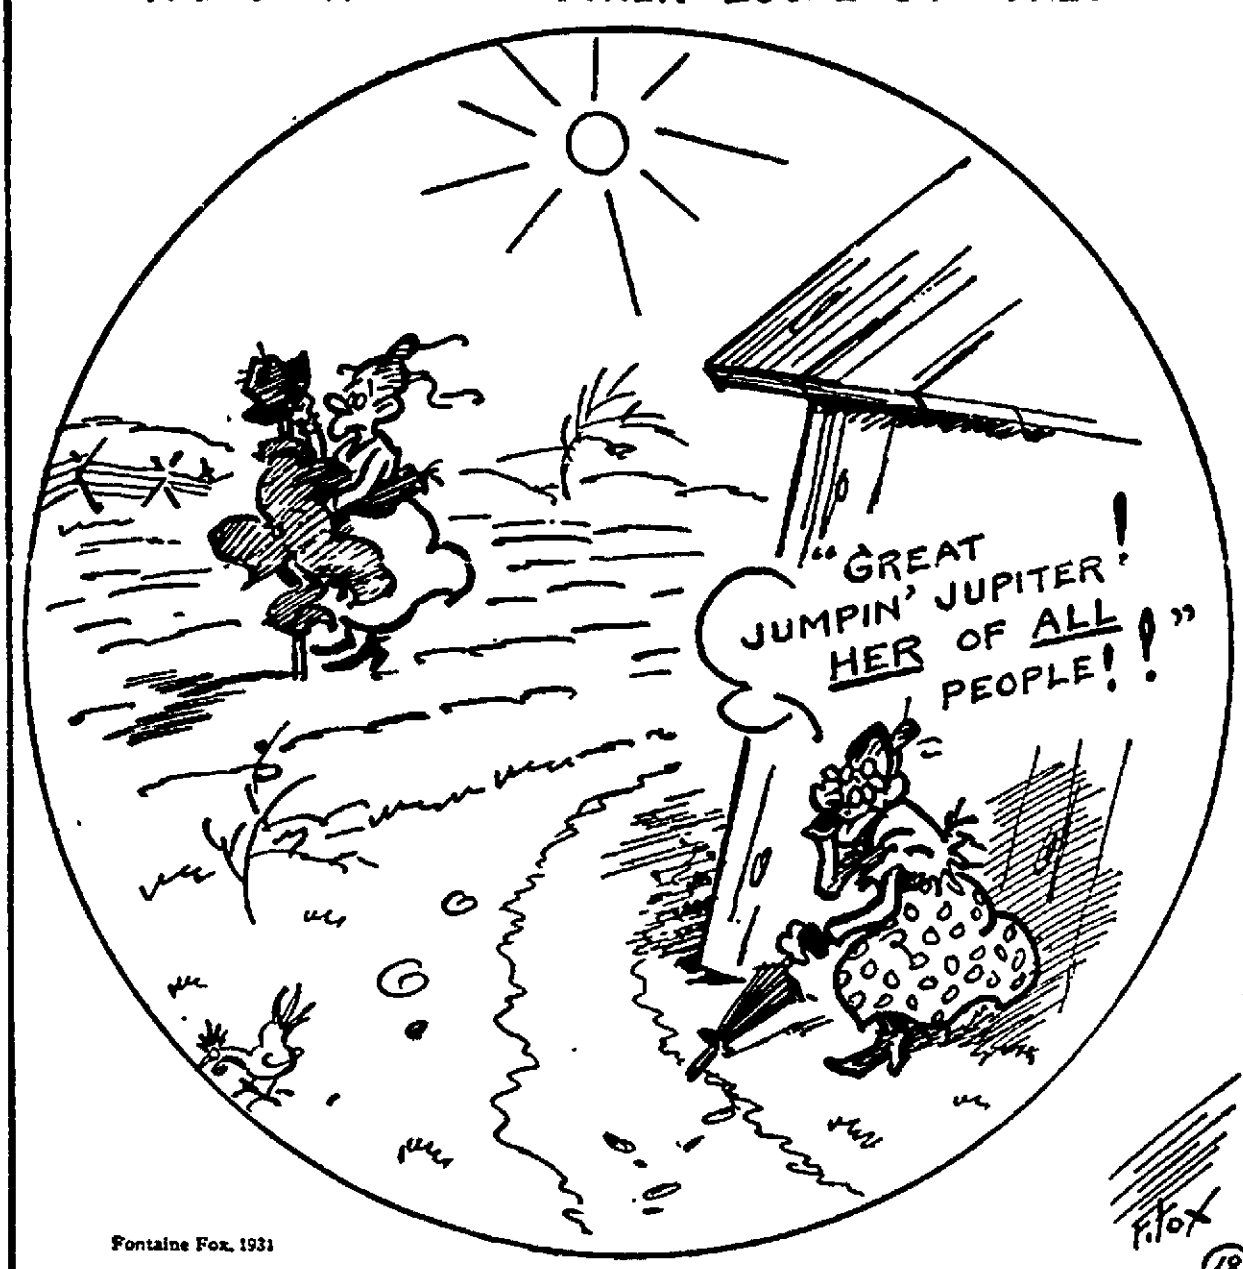

Walton won the Democratic nomination for United States senator in 1926, but was defeated in the general election by W. B. Pinn, Republican. Walton then went into the oil business. He was indicted recently by a federal grand jury for activities of the defunct Universal Oil and Gas company. Eighteen others, including Richard E. Eubank, former police commissioner of New York, and Seymour E. Jacobson Cox, former associate of Dr. Frederick Cook, also were indicted.

Blinn, Walton's opponent in the final election, is a law graduate of Yale. He was born in Pennsylvania and worked as a boy in a steel mill.

ROBBERS KILL WIFE, AGED IOWA MAN IS VICTIM OF EXPOSURE

Paralysis Keeps Him from Telling About Attack Before He Dies

Clarinda, Iowa — (AP) — Unable because of his paralysis to tell how his 68-year-old wife had been murdered, Irving Beach, 74, died at a local hospital early today of exposure.

His wife was apparently slain early yesterday in an attempted robbery. Her hands were tied behind her back and a gag was in her mouth.

A sister of Mrs. Beach who discovered the murdered woman and her dying husband late Monday in their home found Mrs. Beach's body on the floor and Beach unconscious behind a bed where he had been either rolled or pushed. His hands were bound and he apparently had been beaten and had lain helpless while his wife was slain. He had been in the cold house for more than 12 hours after the robbers had left his wife dead.

Beach, who suffered a paralytic stroke three weeks ago, was conscious at intervals until his death. Unable to speak, he could tell nothing of the robbery and was too weak even to nod his head. Hospital authorities said that, although he had been beaten, his wounds were superficial and he had died of exposure.

The couple were reputed to have had a large sum of money cached about their home.

PRESENT CHRISTIANITY "COMPROMISE," CLAIM

Chicago — (AP) — The Rev. Louis F. Martin of Kankakee, Ill., speaking before an Episcopal clergy round table Monday charged that Christianity was in a "compromise with the modern world."

The rector asserted that religion was occupied with building up an institution rather than finding God and advocated "the burning of all parish registers, suspension of confirmations for a year and starting anew with a goal of better Christians, not more of them."

DAWES AND MORROW GIVE VIEWS ON PACT

London — (AP) — Senator Dwight W. Morrow and Ambassador Charles G. Dawes of the United States visited Foreign Minister Henderson and A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, at the foreign office Monday to acquaint the British government with the view of the United States on the tripartite naval accord reached recently between Britain, France and Italy.

The New Jersey senator and Ambassador Dawes went to the foreign office immediately upon the former's arrival in London from Southampton, where he debarked this morning from the liner Leviathan for a European holiday.

JUGOSLAV OFFICER IS KILLED BY BOMB BLAST

Belgrade, Yugoslavia — (AP) — An army officer, major Rekalovitz, was killed Tuesday by 1 of three bombs with which efforts had been made to blow up the military academy.

Bombs exploded at 5:30 a. m. and again an hour and a half later but caused no serious damage and the bombers left no clew except one bomb which failed to explode. Major Rekalovitz was testing it when it blew up, causing injuries from which he died. No arrests were made.

GROVER CLEVELAND

This is the birthday of Grover Cleveland, a president of the United States for eight years, and who, had he lived, would be ninety-four years of age.

President Cleveland was the occupant of the White House during the most distressing economic situation that developed in this country since the Civil War and perhaps during its entire existence.

The development of that situation when factories were idle, farms unsalable, and business stagnant, produced in congress the usual flood of panaceas, dopes and patent medicines, which Mr. Cleveland resolutely resisted.

The popular method supported strongly, was "the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1," with gold. That would surely bring back prosperity. Since there was plenty of silver to be had it was reasoned that such a law would produce so much money there would be plenty for all. The people realize now, what Cleveland knew then, that such a measure would plunge us down into the mire with Mexico, China and India. He stood his ground. It was hard ground to hold for no executive likes the charge that he is indifferent to the misery of others.

A condition of acute hostility developed between the president and congress, the senate in particular. Disputes also arose over each other's authority of such a character that Cleveland is now remembered in history as the president who guarded the independence of the executive. He said that the presidency was "preeminently the people's office" and pointed out that congress may enact laws, but "they are inert and vain without executive impulse," and while the courts adjudicate upon the rights of the people the president under the constitution "shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

Senators denounced him prophetically, as another King Charles I, but even with the fate of that unhappy monarch hurled at him Cleveland stood steadfastly to the definition of the responsibilities of his office, as laid down in the constitution.

"Every citizen," he said, "in the day or in the night, at home or abroad, is constantly within the protection and restraint of the executive power—none so lowly as to be beneath its scrupulous care and none so great and powerful as to be beyond its restraining force."

The senate at that time said "the country 'lacked a leader,' that it was shameful to have the president stand as a ponderous obstruction between the socialist theories it advanced and their fulfillment. And Cleveland was painted arm in arm with the 'trusts' and 'monopolies' which have since been succeeded in senatorial parlance by the single 'power trust'."

It seems that history repeats itself.

THE EDUCATED MAN

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, in answer to a question as to how we are to gauge an educated man and what are the signs by which he may be known, replies in an enlightening article in the Columbia Spectator.

In his opinion there are five essential characteristics or traits which mark the educated man and which "should always stand out clearly enough to be seen of all men."

Without entering into the discussion with which he embellishes each, the five characteristics are: (1) correctness and precision in the use of the mother tongue; (2) refined manners, which are themselves the expression of fixed habits of thought and action; (3) the power and habit of reflection, or looking beneath the surface of life seeking the "How" and "Why" of things; (4) the power of growth and continuous developing from birth to his dying day; and (5) the possession of efficiency or the power to do, not as a visionary dreamer, but to make logical and sensible progress as the result of intelligent study and discipline.

These thoughts of Dr. Butler's are fundamentals which should induce every individual to pause for a moment and indulge in self-analysis. Each one of these characteristics is a trait which one could wish to possess to a high degree. Upon reflection it may be realized that the foundation of each was placed under the building of every life and the way made easy for continued growth and expansion, but the architectural vision of a dominating and efficient structure was lost in the self-satisfied thoughts that the foundation was already a monument which could stand for all time.

It is a delight to meet the man who expresses himself in pure diction and with well chosen language. And what homage, unconscious perhaps, do we accord him who carries within his soul the essence of good manners and taste.

The power to grow, the continuance of one's education, never ending at school or college days, increasing his interests and contacts and knowledge will add to and stimulate his reflections beyond the present moment, and develop the power to do and accomplish. And lo! there appears the educated man. He will appear in many forms and in a thousand and one spheres of life, but there he is always a worthwhile creature to behold.

LABOR AND WISCONSIN COURTS

"In the 19 years that I have practiced in this state I have never come in contact with a single decision of the supreme or a circuit court that has been corporation-minded," said Joseph A. Padway, attorney for the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, at Milwaukee recently, speaking in favor of the reelection of Judge Aaron to the circuit bench and who is opposed by a disbarred attorney.

In making such an obviously fair and direct statement Mr. Padway must have had too a pretty clear idea of the service he was rendering labor, so much more dependent perhaps than anyone else upon the courage and reliability of a just and honest judiciary as compared to a mere fawning or partisan one.

The speaker continued: "We have never suffered from the so-called 'injunction judge' of other states and we have never received finer or better treatment than we are receiving now."

There is a particular reason in relation to the election of our judges why these statements should sink deep into the minds of the people. When judges are before the people for election there is seldom any "issue," no matters of policy to discuss, generally no records to analyze and criticize. They deal merely with the disputes of mankind, differing in facts and circumstances as widely as people's features, and there are few twins in lawsuits.

It is their duty to try and find the truth. It is their duty to apply the laws enacted by the people through their representatives in the legislature. Ofttimes both of these tasks are attended with much grave difficulty, for witnesses do not always speak honestly and even when they do, differ widely in recollection, and legislatures have many times so written laws as to create great confusion in determining exactly what was meant.

Merely to badger judges who are doing the right as it is given them to see it, or to attack and attempt their defeat because they have valiantly stood for truth and law, should find no place or support in an enlightened democracy, nor should labor do aught than treat such efforts with contempt.

Opinions Of Others

AGE AND YOUTH IN INDUSTRY

President Morgan, who was an engineer before he undertook a unique experiment in higher education as head of Antioch College, of which Horace Mann was once the president, has gathered evidence from many sources which indicates that the younger rather than the older workers have suffered most from unemployment. Census figures from 1890 to 1920 showed this trend clearly, and insurance statistics for subsequent years indicate the same tendency. It is only in the field of agriculture that older men are displaced by younger. Employers are generally doing their utmost to hold their older employees. While, as President Morgan states in his article in yesterday's Times, the evidence is not conclusive, it hints that "the deadline of 40" is an imaginary line. There is, however, significant in the relatively growing difficulty which the younger men and women have in finding and holding their places in industry. The older person out of work "is a problem for a few years," while the denial of opportunity to the young man may result in a "generation of tragedy and often a life of crime or other parasitism."

It is, however, not the calendar but innate capacity—which education should have an opportunity to develop—that should make up the list of the employed and unemployable. If there must be unemployed, they should be those who have least to give in productive effort.—THE NEW YORK TIMES

"PAY" SAYS Henry Ford, "the school children who are learning a trade" . . . and after paying the income tax, the bills and whatnot, possibly a lot of people are in favor of paying people who have finished school, too . . . the income tax is down a 100 million this year . . . tak, tak . . . get us a Congress that knows how to make money as well as spend it . . .

It looked for a time like European travel this summer might drop off a bit due to the depression. But, nope, these Europeans are clever. Over in Berlin it's been announced that 6,000 ladies and gentlemen are going to live in their birthday suits from now on to build up their health.

What we may expect to hear from France, England, Italy, Switzerland et al as to their counter moves is purely conjecture. But, Tillie, them there counter moves WILL be smip'n'.

Occasionally, Barney the Bum crashes through with something. Yesterday morning we received a letter from him enclosing two jokes, some personal comments and a penny. We'll print a joke!

Pa: How come you got such good marks this semester, Johnny?

Johnny: I brought the teacher an apple every day.

Pa: Don't you think you could get better grades next time?

Johnny: Sure, I'll bring her watermelons.

This business of spring training for baseball teams is all very well for the players and the sports writers who follow them down. But to the rest of us who still have to wear overcoats and look with wary eye to the coal pile, it's a trifle unfair.

Use It for Highballs

We begin to smell something in the way of insult to this fair nation of ours. Yep, the United States will send a track team to South Africa next summer.

And what is South Africa doing? Just this—she's discovered a plant—adenia—of which the one ten thousandth part of a grain will kill a person. Just when we get it, we dunno, but it'll arrive.

THE DREAM

What are the cherished joys of life? Some say High fortune is the summit of desire. Some a few books, a chair and blazing fire; Others with skill a certain game would play Or lead an army marching to the fray; Another seeks a nook where track or wire, Which never seems to falter or to tire, Can reach him with the happenings of the day.

Fame is a lure enticing many on.

"Contented," says my neighbor, "I would be To potter round my garden, trouble-free." And so it seems life gives to everyone Some far off scene on which to feast his eyes And dream about, but seldom realize.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

THE POUTICE ARGUMENT COMES TO A DRAW

For years I have been worrying about it, and now it has come. All these happy years I have been singing arbitrary assertions around so recklessly, nay, fearlessly, there has been somewhere in the back, ground of my consciousness a constant thought about the sad future when, inevitably, I should begin contradicting myself and inviting all the bright young readers to take mean whacks at me. I suppose this is just one of the sorrows of senility.

D. T. hops up today to relieve himself of the following maddening remarks:

Your article on poutices astonished me. Surely you don't actually believe that a flaxseed meal poultice, or any other kind has a "drawing" effect. You yourself have frequently stated in other articles that the skin is an effective barrier to anything that attempts to pass thru it; unless there is a break in it. If this is so, how can pus or poisonous matter be drawn out thru the skin?

Inconsistent, too, is your remark that in using pain poutices on boils there is always the risk of transferring and culturing a fresh boil. If, pus germs after being exuded from a boil can enter the skin at a fresh point to make more trouble, then the skin must be like a sieve and not at all as protective a covering as you formerly contended.

There is one consolation in my predicament—thanks to somersaults and other foolishness I am still pretty good at squirming out of a tight place. Watch me now.

Our young friend is a keen one, all right, but his attack has several weak spots which we must reluctantly point out, in order to save our face. I have never believed and do not believe that a flaxseed meal or other poultice has a "drawing" effect. I do believe a large wet dressing (thick loose gauze or cheesecloth) kept constantly moistened with a salt solution stronger than the mild salty strength of the tears or the blood serum, "draws," that is, hygroscopically attracts water from the tissues and so favors "drainage," and that is why such a dressing, or perhaps a constricting band, or bath may draw out pus or other matter from an unbroken skin or thru unbroken skin. I believe I am perfectly consistent still. I have never imagined nothing can be excreted thru normal skin—sweat and sebum are constantly excreted so. I still maintain that nothing can be absorbed thru unbroken skin and I am not worried about that assertion being successfully controverted even by the doctors or professors who consider themselves scientific authorities.

I do not believe pus germs can be excreted or drawn out thru unbroken skin. Nor do I imagine they can be implanted or made to enter the skin at a fresh point, as long as the skin remains unscratched, or unbroken.

A whole skin is the very best of protective coverings for the body, and as long as it remains whole no pus germs or other germs can enter the body thru it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Hypothetical Problems.

Have been told I have a . . .

Is there any other remedy than the knife for above named trouble? Is it a dangerous operation? (W. H.)

Answer—I refuse to testify on the ground that it would tend to give many readers needless anxiety.

In fact I can offer no opinion, advice or comment on the vagaries of Bon Told. I like mystery, all right, but not in working hours.

Up From The Squared Circle.

Having completed my pre-medical course in liberal arts college with credits recognized in any university, I find myself at 25 without means or financial backing to continue in medical school. I have some ability as an amateur boxer and think I might make something out of the professional boxing game. If I go into this it will be just around the corner from the medical school. I am not a boxer but a three years boxer. I can begin medical school. Is that too much of a handicap? How about the effects of a knock-out—is there any permanent deadening effect on the efficiency of the brain or sense organs? (J. P. S.)

Answer.—In your place I should make what I could from professional boxing. There is some damage to the nervous system in repeated knock-out blows, a state called "punch drunk." However, don't let a little thing like that hinder your medical career.

What I don't know.

What makes my ankles snap when I go up or down stairs? (E. D.)

Please tell me what I can do to stop the annoying cracking noises my right knee makes when I run or dance or sometimes just when I walk . . . (L. O. L.)

Answer.—Frankly, I haven't even a theory to offer. Loud snapping is sometimes due to a tendon slipping back into its groove, and that can be remedied only by operation.

Cracking sounds are commonly complained of by young women and sometimes young men, who have no evident trouble in the joints affected. Perhaps some of our readers may have a hint to offer about this.

Adhesions.

Have you any advice or help to offer for adhesions? (Mrs. W. B. H.)

Answer.—If Mrs. John Q. Adhesions writes me about her own trouble I'll give her the best advice I can, but I have no information or advice to offer indiscriminately upon any morbid subject.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

S AID Clowdy Tynmite, "I hope that you kill no more antelope. They are such pretty animals."

I hate to see them slain. I don't think I could ever be a hunter. It would upset me. I couldn't kill a single thing. My trip would be in vain."

"Ha, ha," laughed Clowdy. "You are wrong, because I know that you are strong for killing one thing. That is time and you know well I'm right. Would rather loaf than work a bit. So, what you said just doesn't fit." Wee Clowdy blushed and frankly was a funny looking sight.

One of the hunters then said, "Well, we're going to rest here for a spell. Our camp is just around the bend. Why don't you come along? I don't know just how long 'till we take, but we'll prepare some antelope steak. I think you lads will like it, though it's just a wee bit strong."

"Oh, great!" cried Clowdy. "I can eat a real good steak. 'Twill be a treat!" And so they joined the hunters and soon reached the camp. It wasn't long until a meal was cooked and they, it tasted real good. Clowdy stuffed and said, "I am a hungry little scamp!"

A real soft chirping filled the air and Clowdy cried, "Look over there! What is that, in that spreading tree? A bird's nest. I'll just bet."

And, then he looked and, sure enough, the nest was made of twigs and stuff. "Don't touch them," said a hunter. "It will only make them fret."

"Those birds are hammerheads and they have worked, I guess, both night and day to make their home a dandy one. It's strong as it can be. They fasten it so it won't fall. To them that isn't hard at all. You'll notice it is clinging to low branches of the tree."

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—it can't be said of that youthful republican from Tennessee—B. Carroll Reece—that he quit fighting when he was deprived of his seat in the house last November.

Reece, if you remember, is the man who had the distinction last year of having President Hoover write him a letter clarifying an extremely important issue in his campaign—that of Muscle Shoals. Much was made of the president's letter at the time.

However, although he was victorious in the primary, Reece was nosed out in the general elections by something like 2,000 votes. He who would have voted for him were snowbound on election day, and couldn't get to the polls.

But despite the fact that he is serving in congress now in the capacity of what is generally described as a "lame duck," he has by no means ceased to fight for his views on this question. As one observer describes it:

"Reece is 'muscle-shoaling' it to the very end."

Undaunted.

The 42-year old Tennessean is opposed to federal operation of the Muscle Shoals property. And there are those who believe it was because of this—more specifically because he fought the Norris bill—that he found such rough sledding when election time rolled around.

But defeat hasn't daunted him. The other day he arose on the floor of the house and gave a post-mortem of what happened in Tennessee.

"My position was vindicated at the polls," he shouted.

"Let any man enter a republican primary in that district today advocating a federal-operation theory, and he'll be defeated by at least three to one."

He described the Norris plan as a "far-reaching experiment in socialism," and proudly declared that he could not stultify himself by agreeing to such a proposition even if it meant retaining a seat in congress.

No Dodging For Him

"His presence," he headed, "He dodges storm and strife—"

Thus does one of the capital's lot of the man who failed to keep his seat in congress.

The description may apply to some, but not to Reece. He learned to fight long before he came to congress. And he is rather proud of his record to date. In his official biography he points out that he was major in an outfit during the world war which was at the front for 210 days.

He was decorated with the distinguished service cross, distinguished service medal and the croix-de-guerre with palm.

And he was cited for bravery by Marshal Petain, Generals Edwards and Hale, and Colonel Lewis.

CLAIM HEAVY LOSSES FORCED CUTS IN WAGES

Stories of Demoralized Business Told Assembly Probe Committee

Madison—(P)—Stories of "demoralized business" and unprecedented losses, as told by representatives of four Wisconsin concerns, were given consideration today by the special assembly committee investigating charges of wage reductions in the state.

Testimony was presented yesterday by representatives of the Inland Steel company of Wisconsin, the A. F. Meckelburg Sash and Door company, both of Milwaukee; the Palme Lumber Co., Oshkosh; and the Postal Telegraph-Cable Co., Racine.

The committee was told that the Inland Steel company tried to help its employees at Christmas time by operating the Milwaukee plant. It had been shut down in September. During the period of operation, a loss of between $15,000 and $20,000 was sustained, company representatives said.

W. Sykes, vice president of the company, said the sheet steel business "is in a most demoralized condition" but said that operations were resumed in November of last year and continued at a loss because "we have always had in mind the welfare of our employees." Wages are above the amalgamated scale, he said.

Victor D. Werner, counsel for the Meckelburg company, denied the concern had cut wages 15 per cent. Adolphe Lofy, manager, said the average cut in recent months was 10 per cent, adding that the mill had a capacity of $800,000 but last year was able to maintain only a $300,000 output.

O. M. Maxwell admitted charges that in the Racine office of the Postal Telegraph-Cable company, employees past their maximum usefulness were replaced by cheaper help. The injustice of this condi-

WOULDBE BANDITS HELD IN SLAYING

Premature Firing by Lookouts Leads Robbers to Flee Minus Loot

Wilkes Barre, Pa.—(P)—Two of the four bandits who thwarted their own attempt to hold up the White Haven Savings bank at Whitehaven, near here, yesterday, faced a murder charge today in addition to attempted robbery.

A kindly motorist, who had slowed down to give a man and a woman "hick-hiker" a lift, was shot to death and his brother wounded near Hazleton last night. The couple then walked to the state police sub-station at Weatherly, surrendered and were alleged to have confessed the shooting and participation in the attempted bank robbery. Their names were withheld.

James Gibbons, 24, of Laurytown, was the man killed. His brother, Thomas, 27, was wounded.

Two lookouts, one of them a woman, thwarted the attempt to rob the bank by opening fire on bystanders who disregarded their warnings to "keep out of sight."

Two young men, who were inside the bank fled without obtaining any loot when they heard the shots. With the lookouts, they jumped into a waiting motor car and sped away.

When the case was realized quickly, he said, and all of the old employees were reinstated.

J. J. Davis of the Palme Lumber company, said his company maintained a 38.3 cent wage average, the same as last year and one and three-tenths higher than the wage of 1929.

William J. Bauerfeind sits in front of his linotype machine letting the lines fall accurately and quickly, spacing around advertising cuts and constructing designs as he goes along, never slackening speed or hesitating in setting the type called for in an advertisement.

This is not an easy job, even though it looks simple while watching "Bill" Bauerfeind. A single extra letter will throw a design off balance, then is the problem of separating words at the end of a line. Yet the finished type always has the exact space left in for the "cut" or advertising illustration to be inserted. It takes the work of an expert linotype operator such as Mr. Bauerfeind to set a "trick" formation of pyramid type often seen in newspaper advertisements. The letters in the lines must fall off regularly and still keep words intact and retain the symmetry of the pyramid.

Mr. Bauerfeind ran a linotype for five years with the Shawano Journal, where he began his apprenticeship. He was born in Shawano, where he attended Lincoln public school and Shawano High school. His first

JOSLIN APPOINTMENT SURPRISES SCRIBES AT CAPITAL OF U. S.

Press Expected Hoover to Pick Congressman or Political Leader

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1931 by Post Pub Co.

Washington—(CPA)—The appointment of Ted Joslin, Washington correspondent, as one of the three secretaries to President Hoover, was somewhat unexpected because it had been believed that the president would choose a member of congress or a political leader.

Mr. Hoover decided to follow the precedent established when he named George Akerson to maintain one private secretary whose principal duty was contact with the press. Former Representative Newton of Minnesota has the responsibility of relations with congress, while Lawrence Richey takes care of Mr. Hoover's personal affairs as well as many of his contacts with the executive departments.

Mr. Joslin is well qualified for the contact with the press because of his long experience and background. But it had been assumed in many quarters that when Mr. Akerson resigned to go into the motion picture business the president would select a politician to more or less take charge of the nomination strategy. Most presidents have felt that the job of private secretary required a large experience in politics and an acquaintance particularly with political leaders from different sections of the country.

Politics is Useful
The advantage that a private secretary has in talking politics to the many callers at the White House has long been recognized as an excellent means of building up strength with state delegations. It may be that the president will have some one connected with the Republican national committee at the White House for this purpose. James Francis Burke, general counsel of the Republican national committee, had a desk at the executive offices for a long time.

There is no reason of course why Mr. Joslin, the new secretary, shouldn't try his hand at political maneuvering too. Certainly in the next 12 months it will be necessary to keep the federal office holders lined up against any possible invasion from the wet group who are just at the moment inclined to build up an opposition at the Republican national convention especially if Mr. Hoover does not modify his stand in prohibition. It is significant on the other hand that no opposition is even on the horizon. Indeed several senators have already declared for renomination of Mr. Hoover. The Democrats are taking it for granted that the Republicans can't afford to abandon the Hoover administration and that they will have to make the campaign on the Hoover record.

Mr. Joslin comes to the White House with a broad knowledge of politics and national affairs. He was particularly close to former President Coolidge and will probably be

PLAN SERIES OF MEETINGS AT CHURCH

READING from her book, "Sunrise of the Menominees," and presenting Indian impersonations, Phoebe Jewell Nichols, Oshkosh, gave an interesting program before the Appleton Business and Professional Women's club Tuesday evening at a dinner and meeting at Conway hotel. She read selected passages from her book, which describes the Menominees Indians and their pathetic condition. Having made a study of this subject at first hand, Mrs. Nichols speaks with a wealth of knowledge of the Indian as he actually is.

An impersonation of a Menominee Indian mother was given by Mrs. Nichols. She recited in the native language the ceremonial prayer to the Great Spirit and the offering of the sacred tobacco and then translated it, showing that the same words are used that any mother might use in praying for her child, her husband and herself.

Miss Florence Roate, a student at Lawrence Conservatory of Music, presented a group of Indian selections, including "Pale Moon" by Leogan, "By the Waters of Minnetonka" by Leucance and "Indian Love Call" by Fred. Mrs. Floyd Foor accompanied the vocalist.

Mrs. E. V. Werner, president of Appleton Women's club, spoke on the important part business and professional women take in the affairs of the world today. Announcement has made of a Merry-Go-Round card party to be held March 24 at Candle Glow tea room. Hostesses will be the Misses Agnes and Myrtle Van Ryzin, Mabel Younger, Eva Bushey, Dora Eberhardt, Edith Van Stratum and Isla Thompson.

Mrs. Margery Berg led community singing. Guests were present from Manitowoc, Sheboygan, Green Bay, Neenah, Menasha and Edgerton. About 50 members and visitors were present. Decorations at the dinner were in St. Patrick effects.

Mrs. Elmer O'Keefe reviewed "The Party Dress" by Joseph Hergshelmer at the meeting of the General Review club Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Julius Kopplin, N. Appleton-st. All of the members were present. The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. E. H. Reibbein, Randall-st., with Mrs. Kopplin in charge of the program on "Great Meadows."

bur Flynn. The club will not meet until after Easter.

The March party of the Auxiliary of United Commercial Travelers took place Monday afternoon at the Women's club. Decorations were in the St. Patrick theme. Bridge was played at seven tables and prizes were won by Mrs. Charles Maesch, Mrs. J. Christensen, Mrs. R. C. Breitling, Mrs. Mrs. Mrs. Hostesses were Mrs. A. J. Schoonenberg, Mrs. Louis Eversleip, Mrs. Tabor Davis, and Mrs. W. E. Lohr.

An open St. Patrick card party was given by Ladies Auxiliary of Eagles Tuesday evening at Eagle hall with 23 tables in play. Prizes at schafkopf were won by Mrs. Joseph Doerflinger, H. Schnitting, and Harvey Doerflinger, at bridge by Mrs. C. Eversleip, and at dice by Mrs. Sadie Del-tour, Mrs. Freda Shepherd, and Mrs. Catherine Henry.

Women of Mooseheart Legion held their weekly party Tuesday afternoon at Moose temple. Bridge prizes were won by Mrs. James Richmond and Mrs. James Borland, and at schafkopf by Mrs. John Brandt and Mrs. Clarence Frenzel. Three tables were in play.

Teach Child To Solve His Own Problem

There is much about children that we do not understand. Because we do not understand, we blunder along in the dark, occasionally coming upon the right thing, often the wrong thing. Children are an expression of the vast mystery we call life and until we can get a better vision of what life is and what it means, we will be forced to struggle blindly with the problem children.

It is not enough to say that a child is a problem; to label him as slow, gifted, degenerate, genius, bad, or good. We must know whereof we speak and understand the cause and the remedy, before we get anywhere with the difficulty.

I am certain of one thing, perhaps two, as they may be separate though closely related: No child wants to be a failure. No parent wants his child to fail. The failing child is pained and bewildered. So are his parents. We must study to find the cause of the child's difficulty, remove it, and possible, explain the situation to the parents, and go on from there with courage and faith in the service of the child.

When the teacher says, "Son is lazy," "Daughter is inattentive," "Your child is suffering from a complex," has anything of importance been done? I do not think so. I want to know WHY the boy seems lazy, why the child is inattentive, what is meant by a complex. Words do not help unless they indicate a way out. Now what is the way out for the lazy child, the inattentive child, the child whose mind is pre-occupied with some interest other than the necessary one?

First, study the child in his home, in the playground, in the classroom, and in doing so, study every other person who touches his life in any way. You may find the answer in the people who surround the child, in his companions, in his actions. Actions are the clearest of all languages. A child does what his thought sets. What he thinks, that he does in spite of all the protestations to the contrary.

And how shall we get him to think right? I wish I knew. All thinking is based upon experiences and the kind and quality of the interpretation of experiences depends upon something that is a mystery to me. One child will interpret an experience to his good while another will misinterpret it woefully. We have to keep exposing the child to experiences, the more varied the better, until we find a line that his mind willingly follows. We catch that and work from that toward the others he believes he needs. In that lies the science of education and it is not to be caught in the twinkling of an eye.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

DONALD PAYNE sat down on the edge of the table, swung his long legs and ran his hand through his rebellious hair as Sue asked her question. "Have you learned anything about whom?"

"About a certain young lady you and I both believe is as dead as the serpent that crept into Eden. Reporters do a little sleuthing just for fun now and then, you know. Anyway, I've been trailing the gal doing a Mary-and-a-little-lamb-stunt. And I haven't learned anything since yesterday."

"But what did you learn yesterday?" Sue leaned across the table, propped her face in her palms and raised her dark blue eyes hopefully.

"When you look at me like that I forget that I ever learned anything," the reporter answered, grinning. "But you're a good story. Darned if you aren't! You are so involved in all of this and yet so young!"

"I'm not! I'm older than Corinne!"

"Oh yeah?"

"Stop it! You'll be saying I'm sweet next! I'm so sick of everyone thinking that I'm just soft and sweet and... harmless. I'm not. I'm..."

There was another flash. Not such a big one this time. And Sue realized that another picture had been made.

Donald Payne slipped down from the table. "Thanks a lot, Miss Merriam. Of course you're not soft... and not too harmless... but I still insist you're sweet. I'm sorry to get you all riled up but I had to do it for a picture! We wanted to show you getting belligerent and there wasn't any other way. And remember this, I'm with you strong! And I've got a hunch!"

The bailiff was picking up his gavel and clearing his throat. His eyes swept over the courtroom commandingly. For half a minute or less he was going to be the center of interest.

Then he gave three short raps on his desk. Everyone in the courtroom rose.

"Hear ye! Hear ye! Hear ye! This court of common pleas is now open pursuant to adjournment!"

That was all. Everyone sat down again. The women on the jury adjusted their skirts more comfortably. They would have to remain seated a while. The men on the jury looked bored or embarrassed. And Judge Thornton looked very old and tired.

There was double drama in this case. Sue reflected in an undercurrent so low that she didn't know that it was present. A father and son were fighting against each other. And the son was opposing the father because of her! Jack was defending her father!

"This would make a good cinema. Some scenario writer will be borrowing it for the movies," Corinne whispered as though she was thinking of the same thing.

There was a little commotion near the back of the court room. Sue glanced up. Sybil Lester was entering, slim and erect and aristocratic in tailored black things relieved with just enough white to be smart.

"A bad move," Corinne's voice went on. "She looks as though she has snap and dash, but she's mountains removed. She should have done the feminine thing... furs and laces. Of course she isn't involved yet, but if she's wise she will start to look as though she needs protection, and there weren't any tailored clothes in the trunks Helen shipped to Troy, I'll bet."

Judge Thornton was motioning to Sybil.

"One of his star witnesses," Sue thought to herself.

NEXT: The court continues. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

"TO BOB OR NOT" IS NO LONGER THE QUESTION

BY ALICIA HART

Last Year the problem was whether to let your hair stay short or grow long. New flowing gowns certainly encouraged long tresses, soft waves and more hair showing around the face.

With a year's perspective, the coiffure problem has sifted itself about down to this. The young things are letting their hair grow. The older women are keeping theirs short but letting it grow into a much softer and longer bob than they used to have.

It is natural for the youngsters to want long hair. They've never had it. The thrill of kicking long skirts out of their way onto the ballroom floor is made more exciting by having a soft snood of hair—quite in grown-up manner, nestling on their cheeks, or soft curls bobbing here and there.

But for older women who regained about 10 years of their lost youth when the bob came in and made them a present of those years, the bob seems to be far more permanent than most waves by that name.

The long-haired young woman can have lots of fun trying to decide how to wear her hair. Bangs are all right, if they curl, but off the forehead is the general rule for coiffures that should be observed, parts should be on the side of the face that is not the more regular of the two, the less beautiful side. Parts should slant back in a line compatible with the nose line.

For the older women who maintain their independence and their bobs, just a word of advice. The closely shorn bob, the bob with sideburns, the bob that looks precisely like a man's, is no longer feasible, if it ever was in the best taste.

Take a lesson from the softer collars and necklines, the more decorative sleeves, the flowing skirts, the lace trims and that. Let your hair grow long enough to shape softly to the head. And you can make it shape if you take time enough to train it.

But, don't you think last year's bob will last you just as it is some way or other, by hook or crook, get your hair up from your forehead. Not too far. Older women cannot stand bare foreheads half so easily as younger ones. But get it up a bit. And get it curled if it is stringy. You can take your pick, do your best to make it naturally curly, or have a permanent. But if it is distinctive straight hair, for pity's sake leave it as it is and contrive to get a satisfactory coiffure.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

Dear Miss Vane: When I married about five years ago, I asked my young sister to come and live with us, since she had no home of her own, and had had no training for work. She was very grateful for the offer, and since that time has lived with us, helping me out with the housework, and when my baby came had helped me take care of him. Now I have a maid and she has really very little to do, so I can see no reason why she shouldn't take my child out some afternoons, and help in the care of him. But she now thinks she would like to find some outside work and she is most unfair in her attitude. She is not kind to my little boy although she knows that I am too busy to be with him all the time. Also she seems ungrateful for what we have done for her. Will you please tell me how to deal with her?

MRS. H. J.

In the first place don't for one moment let her take care of your child or any other child—no matter how busy you are. If she is completely obsessed with her own point of view about this situation she will certainly be in no mood to deal with a little boy of five. And he is, after all, much more important than any dispute between you two sisters.

In the second place, you mustn't expect too much gratitude from some one who has lived with you for five years. It is only natural that you should look for some signs of appreciation but it is quite on the cards that you'll get none at all.

People who live under the same roof too long forget all the rules of the game. No matter what each side owes the other, there is always the feeling that each has been taken advantage of. That is why it's best to avoid these cozy little domestic arrangements no matter how attractive and beneficial they appear.

You think you did the only right and natural thing when you invited your sister to live with you and help out with the housework. Well maybe you did. And maybe she thought so at the time. But now her viewpoint has changed and it's quite likely that her side of the story would evoke a sympathetic response anywhere.

She's probably telling her interested audience somewhere that she gave up the best years of her life to helping you and that now she feels she wants a little independence and freedom. She will add that when you can afford the luxury of a maid, there is no reason why you shouldn't look after your own child. Oh yes, she's having a good deal to say for herself, and no argument of yours will ever persuade her that you're right.

Therefore if I were you, I should let her go and do what she wants. It's true that she appears ungrateful but human beings are a strange lot, and perhaps if you understood all her side of the story you would have a little more sympathy for her. Anyway, it will be better to spare yourself all this quarrelling and put up with a little ingratitude, than force her to accept your terms, and never know a minute's peace in the house—nor give your child a square deal into the bargain.

BABE AND BUBBLES: Has it ever occurred to either of you two young things that you're more than usually obsessed with the subject of boys? And has it ever occurred to you that you're neglecting a few things like education, in order to pursue this all-engrossing hobby?

Neither of you show any signs of great learning at the present moment, yet you talk glibly enough of attracting nice intelligent charming college boys who are going to be struck dumb by your beauty that they will fail to notice your deficiencies in gray matter?

Better not rely so confidently on your looks—and better not spend all your youth and energy in discussing and pursuing members of the male sex. You'll find yourself two thoroughly unattractive and brainless young idiots at the age of eighteen—and you'll be sorry that you didn't devote a little more time to sports, a little more self-improving than the eternal chase for the not impossible he.

MAY EXEMPT NEW HOUSES FROM TAXES

Measure to Help Relieve Unemployment Problems Is Studied

Menasha—In an effort to relieve unemployment problems and to encourage building in the city, a resolution exempting new dwelling houses from municipal taxation for two years may be adopted at an adjourned meeting of the common council March 31.

A resolution, introduced by Alderman James Baldwin at the council meeting Tuesday evening, provided that buildings constructed for dwelling purposes, excepting hotels, and constructed at a cost of not to exceed $10,000 should enjoy such exemption. The plans provide, however, that full assessment shall be made if other than Menasha labor is used in construction of the dwelling.

Alderman Kelley immediately protested the plan, stating that he believed it illegal and that all property in the city should be assessed and taxed.

McGilligan Defends Plan
Alderman McGilligan rose in defense of the plan, stating that it was an emergency measure, that it was strictly a plan to relieve unemployment of local labor, and that everything within the council's power to eliminate unemployment should be done.

Following a motion by Alderman McGilligan to pass the resolution, Alderman Baldwin pointed out that factories were given similar aid when beginning operations in the city and that aid should be given Menasha labor.

Alderman Grode favored the plan but feared that the measure, while Alderman Heckrodt suggested that an attorney's opinion on the resolution's legality be presented before action was taken. After considerable discussion, the matter was referred to the city attorney for an opinion in writing to be presented at the adjourned meeting, March 31.

A resolution, passed by a unanimous vote authorized the publication of 15,000 booklets, containing pictures and data advertising Menasha, for distribution among visitors to the city during the four conventions in April and May and among industrial heads contemplating a move into the Fox River valley. The plan was presented by Alderman McGilligan and action taken after a five minute recess.

Repair Cost $14,716
The total cost of repair work on the Mill-st bridge was $14,716.88, Mayor N. G. Remmel revealed at Tuesday's meeting. Following the mayor's statement, Alderman McGilligan stated that the work had saved the city thousands of dollars, and that Alderman Grode would be gratified for the city to be able to before the council when he said, "A rising vote of thanks, suggested by Mayor Remmel, was given Alderman Grode and members of the bridge committee, Alderman Small, Lingnoff, and Grode."

The appreciation of the city for the work of Peter Kase, street superintendent on the repair of the bridge and also on the recent repair of the Racine-st. crossing, and for the work of the street committee and officials of the Chicago Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad for the promptness and efficiency of Racine-st crossing repair, was expressed by Mayor Remmel.

Advertisement for bids for construction of a bridge tender's tower on the Mill-st bridge and on 20,000 gallons of road oil will be issued by the city clerk, returnable March 21, it was decided. Bids on four tires for the large street department truck will be opened April 9.

Want Large Bus
The city attorney was instructed to communicate with Wisconsin Michigan Power company officials urging the use of a large bus from Appleton to Neenah at 7 o'clock in the morning. Reports to the council had indicated that at that hour had inconvenienced a number of passengers employed in the twin cities.

A recommendation by the street committee, urging construction of a sidewalk on the south side of Grand ave., east from Tayco-st, was passed by the aldermen. Work will begin as soon as weather conditions permit. A petition from taxpayers, urging continuation of sewer and water service on Fifth-st, east of Main-st, was referred to the board of public works and a joint pole agreement between the city water and light department and the Wisconsin Telephone company, relative to the sale of a half interest in five poles on Grand-st, also was referred to the board for consideration. A petition from the Standard Oil company seeking part of the city's distillate business, was referred by Mayor Remmel, to the committee of the whole.

Renovation of the interior walls of the police station will be made under the direction of the police commander. It was decided. A number of tax returns for illegal assessments were allowed and the meeting adjourned to March 31.

AUTHORIZE PURCHASE OF NEW LIBRARY BOOKS
Menasha—A meeting of the library book committee, originally scheduled for Thursday evening, was held at the library Wednesday afternoon. The committee, composed of Cyril Peerenboom, Mrs. T. E. McGilligan and Miss Daisy Trilling, library official, authorized the purchase of a number of new books.

GIRL TROOP ATTENDS
OSHKOSH COUNCIL FIRE
Menasha—A number of Menasha camp fire girls, under the direction of Miss Mae Bello Gaur, guardian, attended a council fire staged by the Oshkosh troop at the Oshkosh lodge rooms Tuesday evening.

The Menasha troop will meet informally at the Neenah Y. M. C. building Wednesday evening. After skating, ping pong and work camp fire bracelets will feature the program.

GARDEN CLUB HEARS TALK ON SHRUBBERY

R. J. Rahmlow, Horticulturist, Speaks on Evolution of Back Yard

Menasha—The advent of the automobile has been partially responsible for a change in planting styles. R. J. Rahmlow, secretary of the Wisconsin Horticultural society, told Menasha Garden club members at an open meeting in the library auditorium Tuesday afternoon.

Illustrating his talk with stereoscopic views, Rahmlow explained how the passing of the horse and buggy left space in the rear of homes to be used for the creation of beauty spots and of out-door living rooms. The beautification of rear lots has been accompanied by a change in architecture, illustrated by the abandonment of large front porches and construction of living rooms along the entire side of the house.

City beautification is largely individual planting, he explained. By proper arrangement of well selected shrubbery, much can be accomplished toward the beautification of streets as well as private properties.

BETTER CITIZENS NEEDED, KIWANIS CLUB MEMBERS TOLD

Paul Neverman, District Governor, Outlines Constructive Program

Menasha—"Building boys is far more vital than mending men," Paul Neverman of Marinette, district governor of Kiwanis International, told the Menasha club at their meeting in the Memorial building Tuesday noon.

Addressing the largest Kiwanis meeting in Menasha this year, Neverman outlined the program of Kiwanis International and explained the requirements of good Kiwanis members. Fellowship, acquaintance, and mutual understanding is necessary in securing the cooperative effort needed to follow a constructive program.

"We must help develop a high type of citizenship," he said. "Regular use of the right to vote and a constant effort to exemplify good citizenship is necessary."

Development of a higher type of business ethics and standards, better relationship between the farm and the city, and growth with and for the underprivileged, also were listed as part of the Kiwanis program.

Urges Personal Service
In explaining the latter point, Neverman told how the Marinette club had sent 68 underprivileged children to Madison for corrective care and treatment. The bigger job, however, is with the boys and girls of sound mind and body and in order to stimulate finer ideals among boys and girls as future citizens, he urged personal service and contact by Kiwanis club members.

A good Kiwanis member must be engaged in a recognized business or profession, the governor stated. He must be a real citizen, must have good credit, must have the spirit of fraternalism and must have the respect of the community.

In view of changes in the business world and of present depression, a change in economic philosophy must be made, Neverman stated. The cooperative effort of Kiwanis club members will be a vital factor in improvement of conditions, he predicted.

Norton Williams, immediate past governor of Kiwanis, was a guest at Tuesday's meeting and several members of the Appleton club also attended. A part of the Menasha high school band entertained with group and solo selections.

No Danger From Flood Is Expected

Menasha—Unless unexpected storms are experienced within the next few weeks, there will be no danger of flood conditions this spring in the Fox and upper Wolf river valleys, according to Alan H. Tripp, Oshkosh, president of the Association for the Relief of High Water. There is little snow left now in the area above Gills Landing, and the spring breakup will not cause any overflowing of streams, Mr. Tripp states.

The government gauge at Gills Landing registered one foot and nine inches Sunday—a level which is about four inches lower than the average minimum winter reading. The winter reading, he states, has held at two feet, four inches until recently. He declares that two feet two inches is recognized as an average winter reading for the water level at Gills Landing.

Ice already is moving out of the Wolf river. Open water can be seen for many miles. Pike fishing is expected to be under way just as soon as the ice leaves. Experienced fishermen predict there will be fishing by next Sunday. There is open season for pike on the Wolf river all season for Wisconsin residents.

Muskrat trapping has shown average results this year, but the price for furs has been low. Due to the low water, farmers having low marsh land have caught more muskrats than their neighbors on high marsh land. The rats vacated all territory where no water was available, and moved to low places.

The ice in Lake Winnebago has started moving. The cracks from the mouth of the Fox river have extended several miles out into the lake, leaving much open water on this side of the lake.

Double Cross Youthful Star To Complete Scene

by JESSIE HENDERSON
Hollywood—(CPA)—They done little Robert Coogan dirt today. But it was all in the interests of art.

Five year old Robert, the brother of Jackie Coogan, is leading man in the film version of Percy Crosby's "Skippy." In one episode Robert acted as an announcer in a kid show staged by Skippy and the high peak of the scene is the splash of a very ripe tomato on Robert's brow.

Robert knew he was scheduled to be splashed and took the idea rather as a joke. Just the same he told director Norman Taurog that he bet he could dodge that tomato.

Well, the point was that if Robert and the tomato didn't decisively connect, the scene would be spoiled. And it seemed of no use to argue with young Robert who not only is full of mischief but has a reputation as an artful dodger. Taurog had already persuaded Robert not to carry a cherished cap pistol in the scene, explaining to him that the report of that cap pistol in the mike would sound like an artillery barrage. Robert surrendered the pistol temporarily but stood firm on the tomato question. They could throw tomatoes if they liked, but he reserved the right to dodge 'em.

Warily he eyed the director as the tateful scene progressed. Taurog stood beside the camera with a soft tomato in his hand and Robert with a challenging twinkle stood ready to shy at the first menacing movement. Into the hallway, speech Robert plunged, still watchful. Taurog kept his hand at his side. The cue words were spoken and bloop! an even softer tomato struck Robert accurately in the middle of the forehead.

It had been thrown by a property man, with a resultant registering by Robert of astonishment, disgust, and wrath which could never otherwise have been achieved. Not until Taurog handsomely acknowledged that he had somewhat double-crossed his leading man were he and Robert reconciled.

CHARGES FILED WITH GOVERNOR IN WALKER CASE

Roosevelt to Review Allegations Against Mayor on Return to Albany

New York (P)—Charges against Mayor Walker seeking his removal from office were before Governor Roosevelt today.

The city affairs committee, represented by John Hayes Holmes, clerk, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, filed specific accusations of inefficiency and neglect with the governor last night. The governor planned to review them on his return to Albany.

While the full report was not received, newspapers said they were similar to charges lodged against District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain by the city club. Under the city charter, the governor may suspend the mayor for 30 days pending an investigation.

Upheld by Governor Roosevelt in his right to continue, Commissioner Samuel Seabury has summoned Mr. Crain and his attorney, Samuel Untermyer, to confer with him tomorrow and forward a report of procedure in the hearings. John Kirkland Clark, Mr. Seabury's counsel also will be present.

W. Kingsland Macy, Republican state chairman, has returned from Washington with a renewed demand that William L. Ward, Westchester co. leader, withdraw his opposition to a legislative investigation of the entire city government. He said he had not conferred with President Hoover on that subject.

As the hunt for the slayers of Vivian Gordon languished, Patrolman Andrew G. McLaughlin, who first arrested her, was suspended from the police force. Officials said he would stand trial on his refusal to testify regarding evidence that he banked $35,000 in two years on a $3,000 a year salary.

Former Appleton Man Working On Radio Laws

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—The varied career of John M. Baer, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Baer who lived for many years on State-st in Appleton, Wis., is now taking on a new function. Mr. Baer, Sr., has been making his home in California since the death of Mrs. Baer a few years ago.

Farmer, engineer, journalist, cartoonist, postmaster, congressman—John Miller Baer is now engaged in formulating radio legislation in line with progressive thought for consideration in the seventy-second congress when the irregular Republicans and Democrats will hold the balance of power.

As a member of the public utilities committee set up here last week by the progressive conference on economic questions, Baer will help formulate the legislative proposals which will be put before the next Congress with the support of the progressive coalition.

There are 16 men and one woman on the committee, and they will work out proposals on radio, with which Baer and Edward N. Necheles of Chicago are primarily interested; railroads, including railroad consolidation and regulation of railroad holding companies; bus regulation; regulation of interstate power and power holding companies; and all the other problems concerned with transportation and communications.

The only other Wisconsin member of this committee, which is headed by Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska, is Theodore Kronsage Jr., new member of the Wisconsin railroad commission.

Of course, Wisconsin can lay some claim to Sen. Norris, for he has a summer home, which he built almost entirely with his own hands, on the isthmus between Rainbow lake and Nestling lake.

Baer was named to this committee because of his interest in obtaining a radio station, on a cleared channel, for a group of labor organizations. Necheles now runs a station for the Chicago Federation of Labor, but labor wants a bigger and better station.

Baer is a great friend of Wallace H. White Jr. of Maine, who as a congressman was chairman of the House of Representatives Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, handled radio legislation, and who, as the new senator from Maine, will probably be put on the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, which handles radio, railroad, power, and other important questions of interstate commerce. Baer got the railroad brotherhoods' support for White against former Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, whom state labor leader supported.

Few men can boast of a variety of work in such a short time as can Baer. Born just 45 years ago on March 29 in Black Creek, Outagamie county, Baer went to public schools and was graduated from Lawrence college in 1909. Immediately thereafter he moved to Beach, N. D., where he engaged in civil engineering and agricultural pursuits from 1909 until 1915, according to the 14-line biography of him in the great biographical directory of all the Congresses. He also furnished articles and cartoons to newspapers from 1909 until 1917.

In addition to these activities in this 6-year-period, Baer was postmaster of Beach from 1909 until 1915, getting the job sooner after arrival there than he could get a postmaster'ship under the present Civil Service regulations.

Elected in Dakota
He became a congressman from North Dakota, giving Fargo as his home, taking his seat on Aug. 10, 1917, right in the midst of the World War, to succeed Henry T. Helgeson, who died while in office. Baer was elected on a Non-Partisan League ticket to that Congress, the 65th, but as a Republican to the 66th Congress. He ran for re-election to the 67th Congress, but was defeated. He had served from March 10, 1917 until March 3, 1921, according to one listing in the big biographical directory, but from July 10, 1917, until March 3, 1921, according to another.

Then he went to work for Labor the railroad brotherhoods' weekly newspaper here, and draws cartoons for which attract nation-wide attention. Cartoonist is his job and title, but he writes, too.

Baer is a familiar figure around the Capitol. He knows practically everybody. He does not act like a former congressman but like a newspaper man, eating in the press lunch room in the Capitol, and never appearing on the floor of the Senate or the House of Representatives, where he has a perfect right to be because he once was a member of Congress.

Representing a weekly newspaper, he is not admitted to the press galleries of Congress, for only the representatives of daily newspapers and press associations are admitted there.

The editor of Labor is likewise a former congressman, Edward Necheles, who was a representative from Colorado from March 4, 1913 until March 3, 1919, having likewise been defeated for re-election. He was a Democrat during his entire congressional career.

Oshkosh (P)—Municipal officials reported that delinquent taxes have been paid promptly since the inauguration of a movement to seize automobiles when the levy was disregarded. A dozen cars were taken in the campaign.

FIRST COCKTAIL IS DEBATE CENTER IN SUIT BY LONGLEY

Chicago (P)—Chief counsel for the Albert W. Longley estate attacked the veracity of statements in behalf of George Green Longley during his trial to break the will of his father, but he did it in a nice way. James C. Condon, chief attorney for the estate, argued that the testimony for the plaintiff was "typical of garrulous old gentlemen who have reached the stage where they know everything."

Commenting on the testimony of Will Chesbrough, Civil war veteran of Janesville, Wis., who testified he remembered a certain date because he was offered a cocktail, Condon said the statement was "obviously false."

"They didn't have cocktails in 1862," he declared.

"When was the cocktail invented?" asked Judge Michael Feinberg. "I don't know," said Condon, "but I can tell you when the Rossington Martini and my own cocktails were invented. I think Rossington started them."

CHINESE CAN SAVE ON $8 PER MONTH

Many Workers Support Families and Set Aside Surplus on This Salary

Shanghai (P)—Some Chinese workers can maintain saving accounts and support a family on an income of $8 a month.

This has been revealed in a survey conducted by the bureau of industrial and commercial information of the Chinese government.

The figures came out after inquiry had been made of 85 postmen and 100 printers, two of the best-paid occupations in the country.

Half the postmen average pay of less than $12 a month; the other half made about $14. The printers averaged around $3 a month, and it was among some of them that the savings accounts were found.

The postmen's families averaged five members each. Yet they appeared fairly content, were living in standard Chinese houses and had enough to eat.

In contrast is the condition of thousands upon thousands of unskilled workers, richsha runners, wharf coolies, wheelbarrow men, farm hands and a hundred other types.

They live in huts that are cold and damp in winter and roasting hot in summer. But the coolie who can jingle a few silver pieces at the end of the day is satisfied, since he need not worry about the next 24 hours, at least.

STATE LEAGUE PREXY SAYS HE'S THROUGH
Milwaukee—(AP)—Henry Polewczynski announced last night that he will not seek re-election to the presidency of the Wisconsin State Baseball league at the meeting to be held in Sheboygan next Sunday. Other officials demand his full time, he said.

Stanford university, Calif., co-eds playing baseball for the first time in five years this spring.

LIONS BOWL IN STATE MEET AT NEW LONDON; SCORES ARE SECRET

Three Appleton five man bowling teams rolled in the state Lions club bowling meet at New London Tuesday night but in the words of some of the leggers the teams failed to get even honorable mention and the scores will probably remain a deep secret. Four doubles teams also were entered and they fared just about as well as the five man groups. W. A. Strassburger organized the contingent.

APPLETON FIGHTERS ON OSHKOSH CARD

Art West, Art Schroeder Scheduled to Meet Sawdust City Boys

Two Appleton fighters have been signed for the amateur card at Oshkosh Thursday evening which marks resumption of the Simon pure sport at the Sawdust city.

Art West who hung a wicked K. O. on Howie Robinson of Oshkosh here last week will battle Hartman of Oshkosh. The latter is the youngster who gave West a merry battle a couple weeks ago and won the nod in three rounds.

Art Schroeder is the other Appleton boy on the program. Schroeder is returning to the ring after an absence of several months but claims to be in great condition. He will meet "Burr" Berrell of Oshkosh.

The windup of Thursday's card will show Hans Ahl, Oshkosh, and Leo Schneider of Milwaukee, and should be one of the greatest fights ever to be staged in the valley. Ahl lots to Schneider in an Appleton ring last year when suffering from boils. He will be in the first class condition this trip, however.

Schneider is one of the hardest hitters we've ever watched here. He has a powerful sock in either hand and will give Ahl the battle valley fans have been wanting to see him in for many months. The bout should be a "peach."

Zep Taurig, Manitowoc, the little bundle of fighting skill and punch who has featured in high class bouts here every time he has shown, is in the semi-windup with Jule Legler of Milwaukee.

CATHOLIC PREP FIVES OPEN NATIONAL MEET

Chicago—(AP)—The big push for the National Catholic prep basketball championship opens at Loyola university tonight with six of the 32 contending teams in action.

Catholic high of Washington, Indiana and St. Mary of the Mount, Pittsburgh, will inaugurate the competition by clashing in the opening battle at 7 p. m. De La Salle of Chicago, defending titleholder, will open defense of its title an hour later by meeting central Catholic of Wheeling, W. Va. The third and final game of the night will be between Spalding institute of Peoria, Illinois Catholic champions, and De La Salle of Minneapolis. The first round will end Friday morning while the finals will be decided Sunday night.

Short Sports

Athens high school's Hornets, who have won the 1931 Texas state basketball championship from a field of 1,500 teams, also won that title in '27 and '29 and the national title in '29 and '30.

Joel Hunt, who was one of the leading quarterbacks in Southwest conference college football a few years ago, is an outfield candidate with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Dickie Kerr, diminutive pitcher formerly with the Chicago White Sox, who has been playing and managing semi-pro baseball, will retire from playing this year. He is 37 years old.

Final Game of Older Boy Elimination Will Be Played Saturday

The Delts took the lead on a basket and a free throw by Van Rydin. Gmeiner then picked it to count to four with a free throw. Braeger scored a field goal for the Wolves and when the Delts got another free throw the count was 5 and 2 for the eventual winners.

Rallying in the second quarter the Wolverines had an 8 and 5 lead at the half. The Delts then came back to tie the score at 9 all. In the fourth period Powers put the Delts ahead with a toss from the middle of the floor making the score 11 and 9 with a minute to play. Jorgenson then got a free throw for the Delts and Frognier's field goal put the game away for good.

JUNIOR HIGH GIRLS IN PIN BALL TOURNEY

Games in a round robin tournament of pin ball created competitive excitement among the ninth grade girls in their gym classes at Wilson junior high school. The banner went to section I team, with section A winning second place. This semester the students are playing volleyball in which section A is leading.

After the tournament is finished Miss Margaret Zuehlke, instructor in physical education, will choose a school team to play against Roosevelt and McKinley junior high school, Wednesday afternoon in the Roosevelt gymnasium.

The section A players, in the lead for the volley ball tournament, are Lorna Ninis, Irene Smith, Angela Parker, Virginia Hammill, Florence Hoymann and Edna Zephirin.

Sports Question Box

Question—Batsman hits a fly that could have been caught by the center fielder or the shortstop, the latter with some difficulty. Between them they lost the ball completely. To whom should this error be charged?

Answer—In major leagues it is not customary to give this as an error. It is really an error of judgment and the scorers are not allowed to charge errors in judgment of play.

Question—Is it possible for a player to make an error on a foul fly? Answer—A player may make an error on a foul fly.

6,000 WATCH FIGHTS AT UNIVERSITY GYM

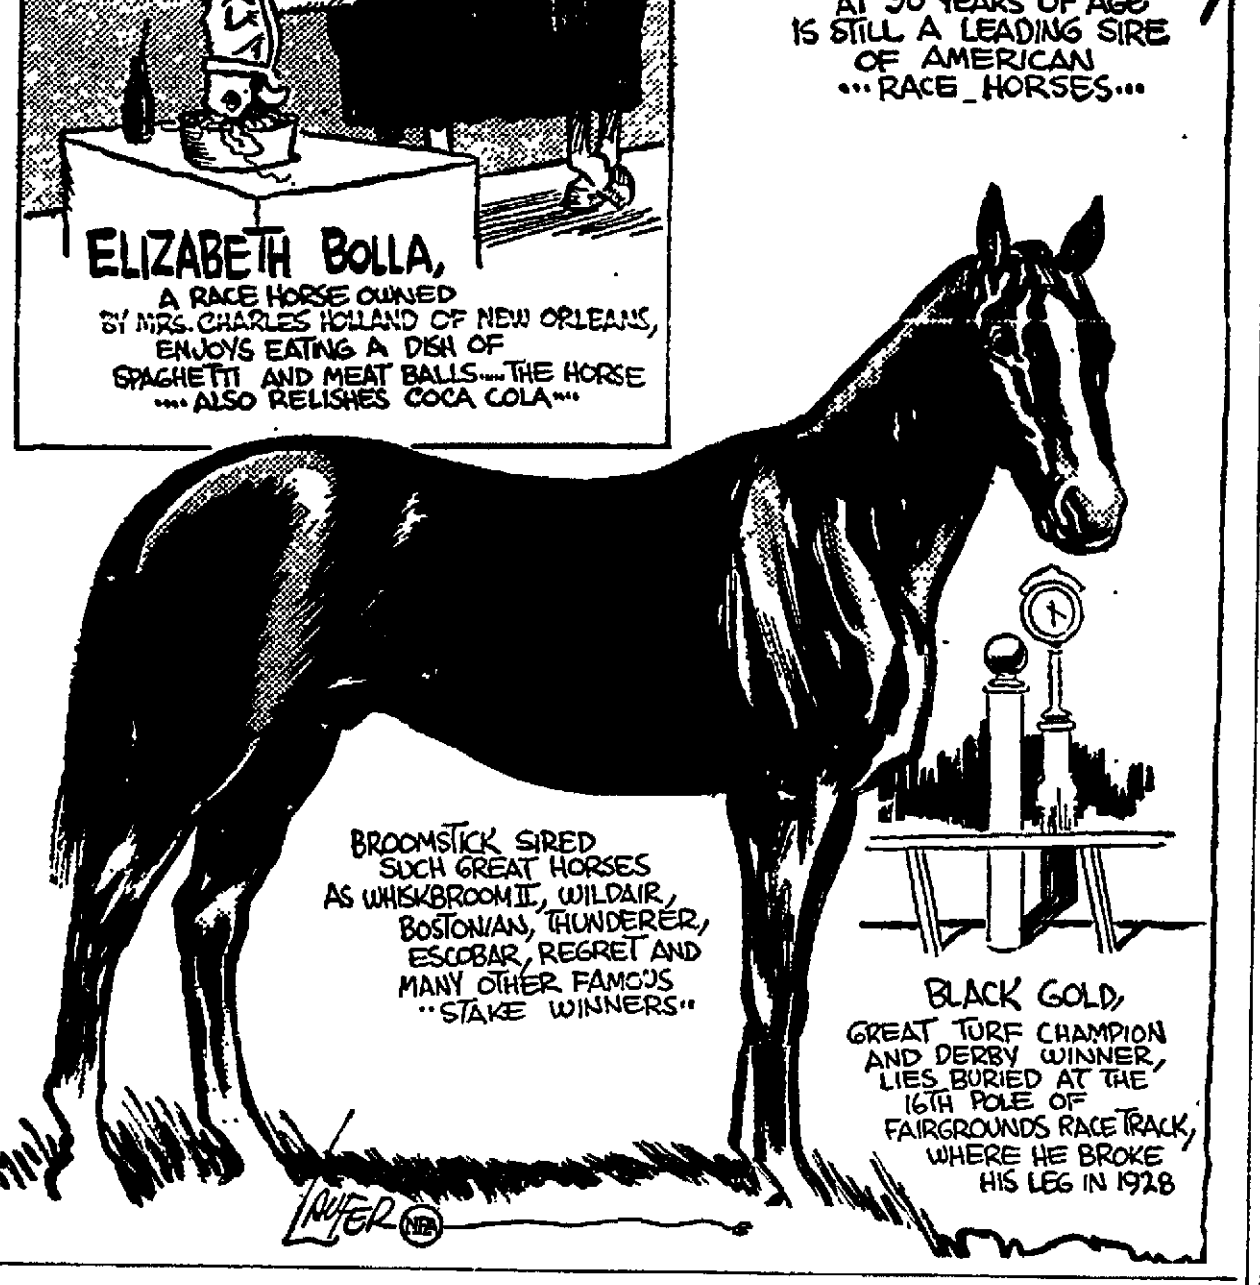

Madison—(AP)—Paul Smeyle's 30-second knockout victory over J. Komaroff in the junior welterweight class featured the semi-finals of the University of Wisconsin boxing tournament last night. A crowd of 6,000 witnessed the show.

game but E. Koltisch saved the team from losing with a 230. The squad then settled down and rolled average scores to win the third game by 13 to 638.

Crackerjacks lost the first and second games of their match with the Teasers because of low scores and then rallied with E. Pingel's 194 to cop the last game. A 93 caused the defeat in the first game and three low scores the best of which was 119 caused the second defeat.

L. Dunn rolled a 189 for the V. Wonder team in its first game with the Tip Tops and the club copied its only decision. In the second game H. Glasnap rolled 178 and D. Callin 161 and the Tip Tops copied. The V. Wonder five turned in a 97, 111 and 117 to lose the third game.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS... By Laufer

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

THE sob sisters around the valley are comparing stories, drawing conclusions and offering suggestions and what not over the question of the officiating in the Marinette-Appleton high school basketball game at Marinette Friday.

And we suppose we'd do the same thing if we were in their shoes.

They say Appleton claims it was gyped, and robbed. That's fine. That's more than this writer ever claimed and maybe their yells will bring results.

During the last couple years we have closely followed Appleton basketball teams, have been scorer in some and timer in others and as far as we can recall we have never given Appleton the benefit of an advantage that we thought it did not have coming. One year we decided against Appleton on more than 20 seconds for a time out and gave East Green Bay a free throw on a technical foul in a game that Appleton lost by one point, 15 and 14.

And last Friday evening we sat at the scoring table as one of the scorers and decided against Appleton and over Coach Shields' vehement objections that the Orange had not taken four time outs.

For that reason we do not believe our sentiments ran away from us on the play in which the Orange was denied that field goal. If we thought Rule had been traveling we'd have said so but under the conditions which the basket was scored and the referee's interpretation of the play the smoothest scribe in the valley can't begin to explain it to this writer's satisfaction.

Election of Bill Peotter and Ken Priebe as co-captains of the high school basketball team for 1932 is one of the finest things that ever could have happened to the Orange squad.

Mortell and Verrier are co-captains of the football team next fall and with Priebe and Peotter leaders of the cage team four members of the squad are captains in sports.

The fifth member of the basketball team returning next year, Bobbie Rule, will be a junior and still has a chance to win leader's honors.

The Orange squad this season has been the finest we've ever had to follow. The boys all seemed to realize their success was the result of team work and willingness to cooperate. They stuck together all season without kicking once, even to the youngsters who had to sit on the bench most of the year.

If they can continue through next season with the same spirit they're sure to repeat as champions.

Note: Bill Peotter promised last night that he'll never again ask for a fourth time out.

Now they want Appleton and Oshkosh to play in a third game to decide the valley championship and break the tie that exists in the standings. It's something that the conference won't permit but if we were to hazard a guess we'd say Appleton would lose if Jack Nussbaum, outpointed Paul Pantaleo, Chicago (4).

Minneapolis—Pierre Charles, Belgium, outpointed Paul Pantaleo, Chicago (10).

Portland, Me.—Jack Willis, Portland, outpointed Joe Zelinsky, Boston (12).

PEOTTER, PRIEBE LEAD ORANGE FIVE

Center and Forward Are Honored With Election to Captaincy

Bill Peotter and Ken Priebe were named co-captains of the 1932 Appleton high school basketball team at the annual basketball dinner at the high school last evening. Although announcement of letter awards was not made officially six members of the squad were indicated as letter winners. They are Em Mortell, Joe Verrier, Ken Priebe, Russ Collins, Bob Rule, and Bill Peotter, and all except Collins will return to compete for the Orange next season.

The dinner last evening was prepared and served by members of the Girls' Athletic association under Miss Edith Small, girls' physical director at the high school.

After the dinner the boys were guests of the Fox theatre management.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Indianapolis—Ray Trambille, Rockford, Ill., knocked out Joe Feldman, Chicago (4).

Minneapolis—Pierre Charles, Belgium, outpointed Paul Pantaleo, Chicago (10).

Portland, Me.—Jack Willis, Portland, outpointed Joe Zelinsky, Boston (12).

M'Graw Expects Much Of His Giants This Year

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright 1931
AN ANTONIO—(CPA)—"Two good things have happened for me here," said John J. McGraw, as he cast a hasty glance over his 1931 Giants.

"I've got an outfield that will work better than our outfield did last year. And I think I've got a real third baseman in Vergez."

"Lindstrom is a sure success in right field," John J. Added. "He gets better accustomed to the position every day and believes he will make an outfielder. So do I. That gives me Oit in center field and the sturdy little chap will make even more on a hit as center fielder than he did as right fielder. Leach will play left. The more I look on that outfield the more I think fortune is smiling on me."

Training Camp Notes

FORT MYERS, FLA.—(AP)—The Athletics, twice world champions, need to be stirred up, in the opinion of Captain Eddie Collins and Manager Mack agrees with him.

Excepting Hank McDonald, big pitcher obtained from the coast league, there isn't a rookie in the camp who Mack thinks will help the A's this season. Recruits who make two stabs at a grounder and swing blindly at tame pitching aren't kidding their boss.

"They don't impress me much," Mack said.

Hot Springs, Ark.—(AP)—Until Al Simmons, American league batting champion, joins his mates at the Philadelphia Athletics training camp in Florida, the Milwaukee Brewers probably will have no chance to defeat the Minneapolis association team.

Simmons has been a large factor in three Brewer defeats in the training camp series here. He made four hits yesterday and figured in all Milwaukee rallies. The score was 9 to 3.

George Earnshaw, Athletic slab star, hurled two innings for the Brewers and set the Brewers down without a hit.

The two major leaguers are training here after their own ideas instead of under Connie Mack's eye down in Florida.

Winter Haven, Fla.—(AP)—Chuck Klein has turned down three invitations to come to the Phillies training camp to confer with officials of the club concerning his salary.

This was revealed today by President L. C. Ruth, who said he had gone to the "end of the road" with the slugging outfielder.

Ruch said Klein replied to the bids that he would not leave his home until his demands are met.

Bradenton, Fla.—(AP)—Chick Hafey's thriftiness today caused Manager Gabby Street to start a search for a capable left-fielder with a punch in his bat. Chick is demanding $15,000 for 1931, which President Sam Breadon says is too much.

Hafey's friends say he has a safety deposit box which is far from sans gilt-edged securities and that he is in a position to enforce his demands or quit baseball. Right now Ernie Orsatti appears to have the inside track for left field should Hafey fail to come into the fold.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—(AP)—Phil Dec, Ball, whose large bankroll didn't get that way from ownership of the St. Louis Browns, will give his 1931 squad the once over for the first time today. Ball had been reading conflicting reports as to what the team looked like, so he decided to come to camp to see for himself.

The trip from St. Louis yesterday required less than nine hours the way he travels—by airplane.

Oakland, Calif.—(AP)—The biggest smiles worn today among the Pittsburgh Pirates are those of Jim Moslot, the versatile Tacoma, Wash., man, and Ben Sankey, Crichton, Alabama's idea of a sweet shortstop.

Moslot, who can play the outfield and also do a little pitching, has been catching the eye of Manager Ens with his fine batting.

Sankey is passing the cigars in honor of the newly arrived Benjamin Turner Sankey, Jr., down in 'ol Alabama.

MILLER CORDS BEAT SLINGER, CHILTON BASKETBALL QUINTS

Former Lawrence College Combination Too Much for Invading Fives

I F two basketball games played at Army of G last evening were for the championship of the state, the Miller Cord five is king for a long, long while.

The Cords last night staged a double header bill and beat Chilton Eagles 53 and 18. Then they went back onto the floor against the Slinger A. C. and walked off with another lopsided victory, the count being 55 and 21.

Against the Chilton five the Cords took a 9 and 3 lead in the first quarter but scored 20 points in the second period and led 29 and 10 at the end of the half. They slowed up in the third quarter while the stars rested and Chilton scored five points to four for the Cords.

The fourth quarter saw the Cords a relentless scoring machine again and with 20 more points in the books the final whistle found the score 53 and 18.

Against Slinger the Cords started where they left off with Chilton. Twelve points were counted in the first quarter and in the second and the team led 24 and 9 at the end of the half. Fifteen points were tallied in the third period and in the fourth with the final score 55 and 21.

A flock of former Lawrence college players, Zeke Rimmel, Jerry Slavic, Ken Laird, Hayward Biggers and Frank Scheller were the big guns in the Miller Cords attack. They reverted to the passing and basket shooting skill of college days and ran the Chilton and Slinger quintets dizzy with their speed.

For the folks in the first game who moved about the floor scoring almost at will.

In the second game, the Slinger battle, Zeke Rimmel who had rested during the first game was sent into the fracas and rattled off nine field goals and two free throws for the scoring honors of the evening.

KNUTE WON'T TALK ABOUT FOOTBALL; HE FEARS OVER-EMPHASIS

Chicago—(AP)—Talk of over-emphasis in football has made a silent man out of the one and only Knute Rockne.

When a reporter spied the famous Notre Dame coach in Chicago this week, he rushed up to find out the reason.

"I came up here to buy a football," Coach Rockne said, "and I'm going back to South Bend to show it to the boys later this week. I'm not going to speak above a whisper during spring practice lest I get accused of over emphasis."

BOROTRA, SHIELDS EXPECTED TO MEET IN INDOOR FINALS

French Ace Has Lost Only Nine Games in Three Suc- cessive Matches

New York—(AP)—Step by step, Jean Borotra, French veteran, and Francis X. Shields, New York youngster, march toward a clash in the final round of singles of the national indoor tennis championships.

Shields and Borotra, along with Perrine Rockefeller of New Orleans, and Cliff Sutter of New Orleans, were in the fourth round today, a step ahead of the rest of the field.

Borotra has lost only nine games in three successive matches. In the first round, he defeated the Philadelphiaan, basing his advice on his own knock-out victory over Loughran a year and a half ago.

Schaaf opened his ears to capacity and drank in the advice greedily, nodding vigorously to show that he understood. Then he went out and stopped another torrent of straight sets.

It was all very annoying to the squirrel. "I would give $50,000, to be in there myself," he growled to Johnny Buckley.

"Don't be silly," was Buckley's reply.

When the following day, Sharkey was offered a guaranty of $50,000 by Joe Smith if he would box Loughran again the Squire declined. That is, Buckley declined on his behalf.

Twenty-four hours makes a big difference. Today night, Sharkey was so eager to have another shot at Loughran that he made that crack about giving up $50,000 to get it. The next day he turned down the same amount for a bout with the same fellow. Indeed, the heavyweight boxer is a strange creature.

What Joe Smith would have done had Sharkey accepted the proposition remains in doubt. Loughran's manager probably was convinced when he made the offer that it would be declined, just as Sharkey, when he offered to box Sharkey for nothing here for the unemployed, was assured that the Georgian was in no position to take him up.

Wants Camera

Sharkey appears to have made up his mind to box Carnera or nobody. As has been set forth from time to time, the plan is for the squirrel to meet the Ambling Alp at Ebbeys Fields under the promotion of Jimmy Johnston in June or July, with the boxing commission stamping the brawl as a world championship fight.

This fight apparently was all set until Leon See, Carnera's manager of record, announced a few days ago that any arrangements to that end entered into by Primo's American representatives were meaningless. A couple of months ago See signed with the Madison Square Garden corporation of Illinois for Carnera to box in September with the winner of the June titular match between Schmeling and Stripling.

Though Sharkey does not seem disposed to box Loughran again, he would strengthen his position by doing so. The squirrel allowed it to be

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

If March 19th is your birthday, the best hours for you on the date are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3:15 p. m. to 4:45 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 6:30 p. m. to 7:45 p. m.

The astrological signs of March 19th auger a day that will reward concentrated effort, and the problem, whether business, domestic, that has, so far, not yielded to treatment will solve itself. A day of fresh thought. Clouds of worry will disappear and the sun of clear thinking will shine.

Children born on this March 19th will have exceptional opportunities in life, and, provided the motive power is with them, will achieve success. Their home life should be ideal, as they will love with vigor, and will be considerate and thoughtful where those, near and dear, are concerned.

If March 19th is your birthday, your disposition is a happy one, and you radiate sunshine, wherever you may be. In your case, all is not gold that glitters, and you often feel depressed, as you are a victim of moods.

You never display this to others, and are always the same cheery individual, and often have to listen to "sob-stories" when you might be telling one yourself. You possess a great sense of humor, and to you it is a saving grace. You are generous and sympathetic. Rather Bohemian in your tastes, but always avoiding any act that might cause scandal or gossip. It is written that, left to yourself, you would not make much of a success of any enterprise. However, with a partner of a serious nature, and who thinks more of the main chance, you might do that which you cannot do "on your own."

Your companionship is sought by all. Your friendship is given to few. In your home life you find great happiness, especially if married with one born in either the month of January or August. You are a great observer of humanity, and this interests you immensely. You do not crave excitement. On the other hand you are not fitted for a life of monotony.

FAMED SWISS DOGS MAY GO TO TIBET

Berne, Switzerland—(AP)—Two brethren of the Great St. Bernard Hospice, famous Alpine refuge for snowbound travelers, have left Switzerland to choose a site for a similar institution in the mountains of southern Tibet.

They are working under auspices of the Foreign Mission of Paris which it is understood, plans to erect a refuge on the heights of the Salvin Valley, near Menkong, in the land of the lamas.

The investigators are expected back in Switzerland in July. If their mission is successful they will return to Tibet with two or three other monks and some St. Bernard dogs, trained to find the weary wayfarer on blizzard-swept mountain trails.

The Tibetan Pass frequently is used by travelers and like the district of the Great St. Bernard, it frequently is swept by snow storms.

The Swiss hospice is more than 1,000 years old, having been founded in 923 A. D.

Heavies Odd Creatures; Consider Jack Sharkey

BY WILBUR WOOD
Copyright 1931

NEW YORK—(CMA)—The heavy-weight is a strange creature. Consider Jack Sharkey. The squire of Chestnut Hill turned and fussed as he saw Tommy Loughran draw Ernie Schaaf, in whom the squire has a managerial interest.

Round after round Sharkey explained to his protegee just how to annihilate the Philadelphiaan, basing his advice on his own knock-out victory over Loughran a year and a half ago.

Schaaf opened his ears to capacity and drank in the advice greedily, nodding vigorously to show that he understood. Then he went out and stopped another torrent of straight sets.

THINKS DUST WILL BE FUEL SOURCE IN WAR

Washington—(AP)—Dust, blowing around in factories, grain elevators and threshing machines may play an important part in the next war—if there is one.

David J. Price, of the agriculture department's chemical engineering division, said today tests have proved such dust can be used as fuel in motors or furnaces.

Coal dust is being used in blow-type furnaces, but smut dust from grain, Price has found, is an even more powerful explosive. In the northwest 300 explosions occurred in threshing machines until an open-air outlet was provided.

Price thinks that in the event of another war dust will have widespread use as domestic fuel while petroleum is conserved for fighting units. He said it is now up to commercial operators to perfect a motor in which these substances may be put to a practical use.

There were 85,139 dairy cows in Montana in 1930, a slight increase over the number for 1929.

NEW ENGLAND FIRM IS SUBSIDIARY OF AMERICAN T. AND T.

All of New England States, Except Connecticut, Are Served by Company

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
(Editor's Note: This is the forty-eighth and last article of a series on the subject of public utilities, covering the principal operating and holding companies, giving their history, field of operations and an analysis of the capital structure. Mr. Hughes will discuss bonds as well as stocks but will present the facts without any attempt to recommend purchase or sale of specific securities.)

New York—Covering all the New England states except Connecticut, New England Telephone and Telegraph is another important subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph which owns the majority of the capital stock. Shares outstanding in 1930 were 1,332,039 of $100 par. A year previous the number was 1,107,354 shares. Net income for 1930 was slightly under that of 1929, the comparative figures being $11,432,022 in 1930 against $11,499,171 in 1929.

On a share basis this works out at $8.59 in 1930 and $10.38 in 1929, the apparent larger decrease being due to the larger number of shares last year. The dividend rate is $3 annually which has been maintained without change since 1921 except for 1925 when $5 was paid. During this period there were three years in which there was a deficit after dividends. To that extent the earnings record is irregular but investors who held the stock over a period of years have always fared well. A year ago rights were given to subscribe to additional stock at par in the ratio of one new share for each five held and expectation of similar rights in the future account in part for the market price of the stock. The shares are listed on the Boston and Providence Stock Exchanges and they are traded in on the New York Curb.

There is also an over the counter market in New York. Fixed charges are covered by a wide margin being earned more than three times over in both 1930 and in 1929 and the bonds command a high rating. There are three issues, the first $15,500,000 in 1925 outstanding to the amount of $55,000,000, the first $15,500,000 in 1921, outstanding to the amount of $40,000,000 and the debenture $5 (now first) outstanding to the amount of $10,000,000 due October 1, 1932. The last named because of their near maturity sell on the low yield basis of about 3.9 percent and the other two to yield between 4.2 and 4.3 percent which is strong testimony to their merit.

DO FOUR HOURS MAKE FULL DAY? FEDERAL EMPLOYEES INQUIRE

Washington—(AP)—When is half a day a whole day? Do four hours make a day or don't they?

Nearly 150,000 people are interested and most of them have expressed an opinion. The official answer, however, will come from Attorney General Mitchell.

It all goes back to the close of the turbulent seventy-first congress. To the surprise of many, a bill was enacted giving all government employees a year-round Saturday half-holiday.

"Very nice," said the employees, "but—"

For years federal workers have been entitled to 30 days annual leave and no questions asked. No questions that is, until the workers themselves began asking this one:

"If a government employee now takes Saturday off, is he to be charged with a full day or a half day's leave?"

BEET GROWERS OF CALUMET-CO TO ORGANIZE

First Steps Taken at Preliminary Meeting at Chilton

Chilton — At a meeting at the high school Monday evening the first steps were taken in the organization of the Calumet County Cooperative Beet Growers' association. C. N. Pulley of the state department of agriculture and markets explained how the tobacco pool in southern Wisconsin had been effective in the marketing of that product. He pointed out in detail how to perfect an organization of this kind. A committee on organization was appointed and a charter drawn up. It was decided to charge a membership fee of 50 cents per person.

It is proposed to hold meetings throughout the county, at St. John Stockbridge, Forest Junction and Marytown, to the the farmers about the movement.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday March 24, at which time officers will be elected and the organization perfected.

Charles Erbe of Seymour was severely injured on Saturday evening as he was cranking a truck. A backfire caused the handle to hit him a blow in the pit of the stomach. He has been employed at the Clifton Rendering Plant.

Arthur Keuler, Jr., eighty-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Keuler fell while at play at his home and fractured his left arm at the elbow Monday.

Miss Anna Barnard, county superintendent of schools, and Miss Idella Ray, supervising teacher for Calumet-county are spending two days in Madison.

NEW LONDON SOCIETY

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dauterman had as their recent guests Mr. and Mrs. Howard Eberhardt and Mrs. Amelia Dauterman of Appleton. Mrs. Caroline Oelke entertained a small party of friends at the Dauterman home recently, the occasion being her birthday anniversary.

The Court of Harmony met on Tuesday following school hours at the home of Mrs. C. H. Kellogg, Warren-st. Mrs. Kellogg conducted the meeting, aided by the children. Several of the children present contributed musical selections and a short time was spent discussing matters which tend to develop musical appreciation in the young students. The children enjoyed a play period and were served light refreshments.

At the meeting of the New London Women's Study club held on Monday, Mrs. F. J. Pfeiffer gave an unusual paper on books, authors and libraries of Latin-American countries. In the preparation of her theme Mrs. Pfeiffer wrote to twenty Latin American embassies and the material gathered from these sources proved of unusual merit.

One of the letters received on the subject was from Miss Lorraine Denhardt, a teacher in New London schools in 1910-11. After leaving New London, Miss Denhardt attended Columbia and was later sent to Rio Janeiro, by the Rockefeller Foundation where she spent considerable time in building up nursing training schools. Miss Denhardt is now an inspector of hospitals, with headquarters in Madison. Her work is done in conjunction with the state board of control.

BLAMES SUPPORT OF RESPECTABLE FOLKS FOR CRIME'S POWER

Appleton Man Says Underworld Wins Major Support from "Good Folks"

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Blame for the power and wealth of the underworld in the large cities was attached to respectable people who patronize the services which the underworld offers, in a talk by John R. Riedl, managing editor of the Appleton Post-Crescent, to New London Lions club Tuesday noon.

"To find the reason for the constantly increasing menace of the underworld we must first of all examine closely our social morality," Mr. Riedl said. "However we may regard the underworld as a public enemy, our conception of it is based upon our relationship to the services which the underworld renders."

Citing the liquor industry as an example, the speaker said that the manufacture and sale of liquor has been outlawed by law, yet it finds its customers among the respectable people of the land. This huge business, devoted to the protection and regulation of law, is compelled to set up its own system of protection and regulation and by so doing breaks down all other law.

"If in pursuance of its business of appeasing illicit appetites of respectable people, the underworld is compelled to commit crimes some measure of responsibility is attached to the people whose illicit appetites are satisfied by these practices," the speaker said.

He said the three principal commodities offered by the underworld were liquor, sex and gambling and all three find patrons among the upper strata of civilization.

The speaker offered two suggestions for solving the problem. One is to make allowances in the laws for practices which in themselves may not be ethical but which civilization condones, and the other is to alter human nature so that it will deny itself the gratifications to which it has become accustomed.

"It is not a question of whether the law is enforced as well as it might be," he said. "It is rather calling into question the wisdom of the laws themselves, asking ourselves whether it is wise to engage in experiments which are noble in nature but disastrous in results."

Clintonville Group Names Committee to Prepare Year's Program

Special to Post-Crescent

His subject was "Citizenship," and he brought out many interesting points during the talk. During the business session Mrs. B. G. Donley, president of the club, appointed a committee to arrange next year's program. On the committee are Mrs. Harvey Theilke, Mrs. Max Stieg, Mrs. D. M. Russell, Mrs. G. A. Kemmer and Mrs. C. E. Gibson. It was voted to purchase one dozen folding chairs for use at club meetings and other functions. A committee consisting of Mrs. Roger Marston, Mrs. C. P. Folkman and Mrs. A. L. Merrill was appointed to arrange for a card party to be sponsored by the Woman's club. Refreshments followed the meeting and were served by Mrs. C. F. Folkman and Mrs. W. A. Olen.

Herbert Heilig, Appleton, directed the fourth in a series of six lessons in shop management, as Wisconsin University Extension course, at the offices of the Utility Supply Co. here Monday evening. Some time was devoted to discussion of last week's lecture on "Orders" and the lecture Monday was on "Handling Men."

Wendell McHenry, Waupaca attorney, was the principal speaker at the noon luncheon of the Rotary club Monday at the Hotel Marston. His talk dealt with the question of jury trials and other matters pertaining to the courts.

About 100 men attended the mass meeting for the Clintonville cooperative oil Co. Monday afternoon at the city hall. George Capman presided at the meeting, during which talks were given by A. C. Cather, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Frank Manser, who represented the Home Merchants' association, and others. A committee of 10 is now engaged in selling stock in the corporation. FIGHT FOR LIFE IS STARTED BY ELECTRIC LINES

Companies to Spend Half Million Dollars in Research Work

BY GEORGE E. DOYING
Copyright 1931, By Cons. Press
Washington (AP)—A determined effort on the part of the electric railways of the United States to save themselves from any further degree of competition is seen in the announcement today that the leading companies have begun the expenditure of a $500,000 research fund in an endeavor to develop new types of street cars to service in cities.
The street car operators apparently have been forced to the conclusion that an increase in fares is not the solution of the problem confronting them, brought about mainly by the advent of the automobile and the motor bus. Despite the fact that the average cash fare in cities of more than 25,000 population has reached the peak of 8.55 cents, their general situation has not improved.
While a certain degree of success

New York (CPA)—Three hundred and eighty million passengers rode in New York City's 20-000 taxicabs last year and paid fares and tips totaling $187,000,000, according to figures published today by the statistical department of the motor transit committee.
These figures are the result of a survey to determine the national importance of the taxicab as compared with other standard forms of transportation. In 1930 more than a billion passengers were carried by American taxicabs, against 786,000,000 by railroads. Gross passenger revenues of the railroads, however, were $876,000,000, compared with $550-000,000 for taxicabs. The latter
mated $100,000,000 in tips.

has attended some of the schemes for encouraging the public to use the street cars, such as weekly tickets good for any number of rides, the condition of the street car companies is not satisfactory to them.
They have supplemented their rail service with buses, and when extensions were necessary the motor schedules have been generally used.

The so-called trackless trolley has been used by about a dozen companies for experimental purposes.
Now, according to an announcement today by the American Electric Railway association, engineers have begun the collection of analytical data and the gathering of samples of the most modern electric cars built for various cities. These are to be assembled in Brooklyn and the outstanding advantages of each will be noted with the object of developing improvements in the way of smooth riding, facilities for passenger comfort and safety, attractive appearance, quietness and light weight.
Operating companies representing about 60 per cent of the electric railway industry of the country, together with practically all of the larger manufacturers of street cars and equipment, are said to be represented in the movement, which will be under the direction of C. F. Hirschfeld, internationally known research engineer.

The electric railway industry, particularly that part engaged in interurban transportation, also is deeply interested in the report of successful competition with bus lines indicated by the testimony of J. M.
Fogge, vice president of the Cincinnati and Lake Erie, before the interstate commerce commission last week.

Longest Line
The Cincinnati and Lake Erie is the longest through electric interurban railway in the United States, and Mr. Fogge claimed that it has demonstrated its ability to maintain its business for interurban hauls despite the competition of buses and trucks. Fast through passenger service, with trains running as high as 85 miles an hour at a fare of 2.75 cents a mile, has resulted in a material increase in that class of business. Fast freight service and the use of freight forwarders giving pickup and delivery service accomplished similar results in that class.
With these developments in the electric railway field, coupled with a concerted movement on the part of four of the largest interurban lines in the country for further regulation of buses and trucks, comes a report of additional activity on the part of the bus industry to win public favor.

A new organization has just been formed, known as the Highway Station corporation, which proposes to "Harveyize" the nation's bus network—building and operating a chain of standardized refreshment stations along the routes. Each station, it is announced, will cost $30-000 to $50,000. It is planned to construct at least 10 within 100 miles of New York, 15 between New York and Chicago, and 175 between New York and Los Angeles. The total budget cost of the project is estimated to be nearly $15,000,000.

Americans who make out their income tax returns to an accompaniment of groans and wails about the high cost of government literally "ain't seen nothin' yet."
Just consider the tax burdens of the English or the Germans. An Englishman doesn't have to have much of an income to be paying 23 per cent of it in income tax, and this rate quickly mounts to 50 per cent among the wealthy. To put it concretely, a married man with an income of $6690 would pay to the British government $845, which is at least 15 times as much as he would pay in the United States.
In Germany, even comparatively low-salaried folk pay from 10 to 20 per cent tax, and the wealthy pay 40 per cent on practically all their income. The salaried worker has his income tax deducted and forwarded to the government by his employer, and dividends are taxed at anywhere from 10 to 40 per cent at the source. There is also a heavy capital tax on lands, houses and intangible capital.
The accompanying chart gives a rough comparison of income taxes in the three countries as nearly as they may be shown allowing for differences in currencies and tax systems.

MILLIONS NEEDED TO FREE FORESTS OF BLISTER RUST

Estimate of Cost Is Made by Forestry Experts of Federal Government

Spokane, Wash.—(AP)—To control a parasite more deadly to northwest forests than fires, an expenditure of more than $7,500,000 within ten years will be necessary.
This is the estimate of forestry experts of the federal government and northwest states meeting here to plan a concerted defense from the blister rust that reached the Pacific coast from Europe eight years ago.
The forest industries in Washington, Idaho, Oregon and Montana—some 3,000,000 acres—produce an annual revenue approximating $40-000,000. More than a million and a half acres of this timber is controlled by the United States, the largest "owner."
The blister rust, less spectacular than the fires, is potentially more disastrous. E. K. McHarg, inspector of the federal forest service said, but the fight against it has been organized, and damage has been confined to thousands of dollars rather than millions.
The rust grows quietly like a fungus on gooseberry and current bushes, is wafted to pines, girdles and kills them and then drifts back to the bushes for another cycle.
Eradication work consists of killing bushes by uprooting or damaging them with chemicals.

WOMAN BANDIT IN CHINA RULES OVER 20 TOWNS

"Widow Chang" Is Merc-less With Wealthy but Generous With Poor

Shanghai (AP)—China's female
"Robin Hood" now is a full-fledged brigade commander in the Nanking armies.
The "Widow Chang" is famous throughout Honan province as a bandit leader of the story-book school merciless in her extraction of riches from the wealthy but generous to the extreme with the poor.
After conspicuous success at the head of her own independent force of 3,000 picked men, she has now made these forces a part of the Fourth Route army under Gen. Fan Tso-yuan. They have been stationed west of Hankow. She ranks as a colonel.
The widow fought several battles with Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang's troops in last summer's civil war, and was so successful that when Feng had fled into Shensi the nationalists offered her a job to battle on their sides on all future wars.
Since then she has established a "protectorate" over a score of villages and towns which she has captured in Honan province using her commanding position to levy heavily upon the rich in order to provide food and clothing for the poor.
Some years ago the "Widow

Chang" was the wife of a well-to-do merchant. According to the story that has been woven about her past,
"Mr. Chang" and her children were killed by bandits, and the family fortune was wiped out. She swore revenge on her husband's slayers.
A few months later she enlisted in a brigand gang and when the leader died took command. She has long since avenged herself for the death of her husband and children, and in a public proclamation a few years ago announced that she would devote the rest of her life to helping the poor.

WILBUR INDIAN PLAN RAPPED BY WHEELER

Washington (AP)—A plan submitted by Secretary Wilbur for a detailed study of Indian conditions was described as "preposterous" and "impractical" by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, today before the senate Indian committee.
Wheeler protested the plan called for engagement of an outside lawyer to serve as chairman of the investigating commission, of which the chairman of the senate and house Indian committees also would be members.
"If I were chairman," said Wheeler, "I would consider it an insult."
Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, remarked that the suggestion gives a correct intimation of the opinion the secretary holds of the congressional Indian committee.

At the Republican presidential convention in 1884, the reform wing of the party "bolted" and proudly assumed the name "Mugwump," which was given them in derision.

By Percival Christopher Wren Author of MYSTERIOUS WAVE BEAU GESTE BEAU IDEAL

SYNOPSIS: How can Dr. Charters rid himself of the mysterious John Wayne, who has used his knowledge of the physician's past to gain admittance as a patient in his nursing home? Thereby he has obtained an alibi for the murder of "Spider" Schlitz, whom Charters, in America, had cheated of his spoils in a diamond "job." Mr. James, Charters' trusted associate, pulls a pistol on Wayne, who knocks him down. Then the evil Dr. MacAdoo, at Wayne's urging, demands of Charters a half share of the 10,000 pounds promised him in the case of Marjorie Landerdell, an attractive patient, who is convinced that she is steadily growing worse under treatment in the home. Charters agrees, alarmed when MacAdoo admits Wayne gave him the hint. Marjorie, whose aunt formerly was Charters' evil genius, secretly writes Wayne, revealing her fears and asking his help.

Chapter 14
A MEDICAL DIGEST
SIR BERNARD MATTHIESON, who had been at Guy's with Mark Studley, bustled into Dr. Studley's consulting-room at The Monastery, after his consultation with Doctors Charters and MacAdoo, and carried that old friend to lunch with him.

"Well, Mark, how do you like yourself at The Monastery?" inquired Sir Bernard, as they sat down to lunch in the ancient oak-paneled dining-room of the Red Lion at Herepath.

"Oh, well enough, Bernard. Very interesting work, and I set enough accounts for reading. I don't want to stagnate. I'm hoping to come to Harley Street myself, in two or three years."

"Good luck to you, my son. How do you get on with Charters? Don't like him much, eh?"

"Oh, I don't know. He's a very marvelous diagnostician, and a fine surgeon."

"And MacAdoo? What do you make of him?"

"He's a clever chap. Real authority on South American vegetable poisons. Did some good research work up the Amazon and in the Philippines generally. The Negroes there have some wonderful things. They have one poison for their war-arrows—the first causing painless, and almost instant death; the other causing terrible agony before certain death. No antidote for either of them."

"And MacAdoo got the secret of them, eh?" asked Sir Bernard.

"I believe so—as well as a stock of each. He was telling me that the hunting-poison is humane. In use, quite painless, and neither poison leaves any trace whatever in the body, he tells me, whether injected or swallowed. Yes, MacAdoo's very keen on his subject and doing some real pioneering work in vegetable poisons."

"An American?"

"I don't know. He's certainly not straight from the Highlands. I think he studied at Lisbon and Rio Janeiro. Possibly Scottish extraction, and naturalized in Portugal."

"And you refuse to do it?"

"Absolutely. I couldn't be a party to putting that man, as I find him, into the awful living death of imprisonment for life in a lunatic asylum. It's easier to get into one of those places than to get out again. I won't agree to it."

"No. You said Charters wants you to certify him. . . . literally 'wants' do you mean, Bernard?"

"Well, both Charters and MacAdoo were decidedly keen on it, and they produced a witness, The excellent Sister Weldon, the Matron, a nurse—Jones, I think, was the name—and your friend Mr. James. Each with a tale of astounding eccentricities. . . . Well, I'm coming down again later on, at Wayne's own request, and we will see how he behaves then. . . . And you might keep an eye on him yourself, Mark. I'd almost as soon sign an innocent man's death warrant as to make a mistake over certifying a sane man."

"There's one solution, of course," observed Mark Studley. "He might be shamming."

"Why should he do that?"

"I dunno. Form of 'hysteria,' perhaps."

"Well, if that were so, I should say it was the maddest thing he'd done yet," replied Sir Bernard. (Copyright, 1931, by Frederick A. Stokes Co.)

RISE IN POWER, STEEL OUTPUT IS BOON TO MARKET

Rail Shares Tend to Drag List Lower—Business Data Lends Support

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York.—(AP)—Further gains in steel mill output and electric power in the last week of the month have caused a rise in today's stock market. The list remained in a condition of sensitive balance between a buoyant tendency in the utilities and in industrials, and continued heaviness in the railroads. The rail shares dragged the list lower again for a time but the mid-week business statistics provided support, and the list was inclined to work higher after mid-day. Trading, however, was sluggish.

An encouraging item in the weekly steel trade reviews was the report by "steel" that a leading U. S. steel subsidiary will increase prices for bars, plates and shapes $1 a ton after April.

The weekly report of electric power consumption, covering the second week of March, showed a reduction of only 2.2 per cent from the year ago the best comparison so far this year. Freight car loadings, as reported for the first week of March showed a substantial rise from the preceding holiday week, but the increase was if anything below expectations.

Cash money was again abundant, and quoted at 1 per cent in the outside market.

IRREGULARITY MARKS TREND OF BOND MART

New York.—(AP)—The bond market wavered today. Price changes were narrow and divided about evenly between gains and declines.

Foreign obligations showed a rising tendency which did not go very far. German 5 1/2s of 1935 were one of the most active of the group and made another good gain. French 7 1/2s and 7 1/2s illustrated the uncertain trend. The former were fractionally higher and the latter cast off. Peruvian 6s of 1930 were active at prices close to yesterday's final level.

Issues with conversion or stock purchase privileges reflected the current currents of the share market. Baltimore and Ohio 4 1/2s of 1930 and Atchafalaya 4 1/2s of 1930 followed the corresponding stocks downward. Lautaro Nitrate 6s were one of the most active issues of the group and jumped 3 points at one time. General Theatres 6s, and International Telephone 6 1/2s, were also higher.

United States government obligations were heavy. Trading in them was very narrow which does a good deal to explain the small fluctuations among them. The announcements of Brigadier General Hines of the Veterans bureau that at least $1,000,000 would be required to meet veterans applications for long and secondary service's bonus had additional financial weight. It was required as a result were cited as the bearish influence on this group.

Railroad obligations were generally lower in sympathy with rail stocks but most of the declines were moderate. St. Louis San Francisco 4 1/2s of 1978, St. Paul 5 1/2s of 1930, and Chicago and Northwestern 4 1/2s were active and lower. New York, Chicago and St. Paul 4 1/2s of 1978, Pennsylvania Series D 4 1/2s and the General 4 1/2s of 1965 showed varied degrees of firmness.

Industrial bonds were steady. Public utility issues held firm on limited sales.

CONSIDER CARFERRY LINE ACROSS LAKE

Muskegon, Mich.—(AP)—A new car ferry line across Lake Michigan between Milwaukee and Muskegon to provide a shorter route between the northwest and eastern states is being considered seriously by the Pennsylvania railroad, according to Elisha Lee, vice president of the system.

In an address before the annual meeting of the Muskegon Transportation club last night, Mr. Lee discussed advantages of the proposed line to his company and to the territory which would be served. He pointed out that it would provide a shorter route between the coal mines of the west and the industrial area about Milwaukee.

PARTY TANGLE IN BRITAIN TO BRING CHANGES

David Lloyd George Expected to Enter Labor Fold in New Alignment

London — (AP) — Widespread stories today of the new British party alignments, which would lead David Lloyd George to the Labor fold, and Sir John Simon to the Conservative standard greatly excited political circles.

The reports, published in the Daily Sketch and a Liberal organ, appeared to be the outgrowth of defeat of the Labor government Monday night by four votes on a minor clause of the electoral reform bill, principally because Sir John and ten fellow Liberals refused to follow Lloyd George in voting with the ministry.

The Daily Sketch said that Mr. Lloyd George, disgusted with failure of the party to stand with him in maintaining the Liberal-Labor alliance, would enter the Labor cabinet as lord privy seal, succeeding Vernon Harcourt, who died a few days ago, and Harcourt's predecessor, J. H. Thomas. The post carries with it an unofficial unemployment portfolio, which would give the Liberal leader opportunity to advance his pet schemes on that subject.

Liberals, Conservatives, and Labor party alike are badly split, with the leadership of the nominal heads of the parties in question by insurgent factions of each.

Only 19 Liberals voted with Mr. Lloyd George and the government on the electoral reform measure Monday night; 23 were absent and unpaired, six were paired against the bill, and 11 voted outright against it.

Prime Minister MacDonald is said to have taken Laborites who were absent, and unpaired at the time of the division, severely to task in a meeting of the parliamentary Labor party last night, considerably more than enough having been absent to have stayed off a government defeat. It was understood he will reintroduce the clause on which he was defeated, providing for abolition of university seats in the commons, and make it a confidence measure.

Woman Describes Shooting Of Alleged "Radio Lover"

Eau Claire — (AP) — Miss Harriet Butcher's story of how she shot Sigurd H. Lind, her reputed "radio lover" when he refused to continue their love affair today was before the jury as her trial moved into its third day.

Propped in a wheel chair, the 29-year-old woman sobbed out a story of love, allegedly professed in song when Lind crooned melodies by radio. Miss Butcher is still suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident several weeks ago. She was unable to take the witness stand, so testified from her invalid's chair.

Miss Butcher told of how she met Lind and said that before he filled radio engagements he would telephone her. She added that he told her he would divorce his wife and marry her.

Miss Butcher testified she came to Eau Claire from her Chippewa Falls home Christmas eve to meet Lind, a grocer. She telephoned to his store, but was told he was out. Later she walked past the store and saw him inside, she related. Realization that she was being avoided drove her into a frenzy, she said, admitting she imbibed from a bottle of whiskey.

Later she again tried to talk with Lind by telephone. Miss Butcher testified, but was denied. Things went black for her, she told the jury, and she did not know what she did.

According to witnesses, the woman hired a taxicab and drove to the store and when Lind refused to talk with her she shot him, one bullet wounding him in the hand.

"I didn't intend to kill him," she told the jury.

Lind previously had denied before the jury that he ever proposed to the woman. He did identify several letters Miss Butcher presented as evidence as written by him. They contained expressions of love.

Meeting Tour Members To Be Greeted By Lady Astor And Sir Chapman In London

When the Outagamie-co Educational Pilgrimage to Europe reaches London next summer, its members will find two outstanding members of the English peerage awaiting to place their personal services at their disposal.

Sir Samuel Chapman, a member of the English parliament, has agreed, according to word received by Harold S. Nason, president of the Travel Guild, which is handling the land portion of the tour, to personally conduct the entire party through the Houses of Parliament. Because there will be such a large crowd, Sir Chapman wrote to Mr. Nason, it will be necessary to secure more guides for the party. As the group will consist of teachers, Sir Chapman has agreed to secure the services of 20 other members of the Houses of Parliament to assist him in conducting the teachers on the sightseeing trip. The names of these English legislators will be received later.

The other member of the British peerage, who has promised to use her efforts to make the teachers' trip to Europe this summer really worthwhile, is Lady Nancy Astor, former American, and now a member of the English parliament. She is the first woman ever to be elected to parliament. Lady Astor has promised Mr. Nason to be present at the House of Parliament when the teachers make their visit and to give a short address.

These are the first official announcements of meetings which are being arranged with prominent Europeans for the Meeting pilgrimage. Other announcements are expected within the next week or two.

Plan Oxford Visit
The Travel Guild is making arrangements for the teachers to visit Oxford university in England and also the University of Sarbonne in Paris.

Last week there were seven representatives of the three companies in Appleton and arrangements were completed to charter accommodations on a second boat, similar to those chartered on the Minnedosa. This second boat will take care of 500 more passengers so that A. G. Meating's tour can now accommodate 1,000 teachers and their friends. Almost 400 already have registered, and it is expected the first boat load will be completed within a month. Reservations will then be made on the second boat, which will sail on the same day as the first boat from Montreal. The itinerary, however, of the second boat probably will be reserved.

PLAN EXCAVATION TO STUDY GLORIES OF ANCIENT PERSIA

Archaeologists from University of Chicago to Explore Old Palaces

Chicago — (AP) — The glories of ancient Persia, immortalized in history by the Emperor Darius and his son, Xerxes, are to be revealed in a scientific light by a party of archaeologists from the University of Chicago.

After years of negotiations with the Persian government, the Oriental Institute of the university has removed all objections to excavations on the site of Persepolis, where Darius built a magnificent capital five centuries before Christ.

The Persian expedition is the first archaeological endeavor under the new antiquities law of that country. It will be the eleventh party of excavators sent into the Near East by the University. The others 10 are in Egypt, Palestine, the Hittite country of Asia Minor and Iraq.

James H. Breasted, director of the Oriental Institute, is commander-in-chief of the expedition. The Persepolis archaeological site will be at work this summer. The site of the city, marked by walls and columns rising above the ruins, is inland from the Persian gulf, near Shiraz.

The Institute this summer also will begin excavations of four ancient Babylonian cities near Baghdad, along the old caravan route between Babylon and Persia. This expedition will be directed from the new archaeological headquarters at Tell Amarna.

Professor Breasted believes the "cradle of civilization" will be found in Asia Minor in a circle of 2,000 mile diameter, bounded by the eastern end of the Mediterranean sea, the northern end of the Persian gulf and the Red sea and the Caucasus mountains.

Persepolis, built by Darius in the fifth century before Christ, was noted chiefly for its "Palace of the King of Kings," built by Xerxes. Xerxes was murdered in one of his palaces in 465 B. C. and in 331 B. C. Alexander the Great burned Persepolis in retaliation for Xerxes' destruction of Athens a century before.

Xerxes is linked with the epochal Greek defense at the Thermopylae pass where Leonidas and 1,400 Thebans, Thiebans and Spartans died holding back the Persians. It was on that expedition that Xerxes burned Athens.

The Oriental Institute hopes to remove the debris of centuries from the palaces, which time has not entirely buried. But more important, said Dr. Breasted, will be the unearthing of sculpturings and other works of art. Archaeologists have found many specimens of ancient Persian art, but none from the dim past that Darius and Xerxes glorified.

GAMBLING IN FRANCE NETS OVER 13 MILLIONS

Nice, France (AP) — French gambling felt the effects of the 1930 depression, but managed to eke out profits of about $13,500,000.

Official figures show the world's gamblers left $4,750,000 on the French Riviera alone and it is estimated that more than a billion dollars changed hands over the green tables hereabouts.

The $4,750,000 figure represents the net gains of the Riviera casinos. It is $713,850 less than in the previous year.

Frank Jay Gould's casinos at Nice and Juan los Rios registered increased profits of $500,000, but the famous municipal casino at Cannes reported a decrease of $800,000.

ORDINANCE ON MILK ADOPTED BY ALDERMEN

New Measure Approved by Council by Vote of Five to Three Kaukauna—By a vote of five to three, the proposed milk ordinance was adopted by the city council at an adjourned meeting Tuesday evening.

The section causing disagreement was the exemption of the owner of two cows from complying with other clauses of the ordinance. Alderman Smith, head of the health committee, declined to present the ordinance for passage because he claimed it was discriminating. He said the owner of two cows was not classed as a dealer and the owner of three cows was.

Alderman Landreman said that if the council adopted a milk ordinance it should protect all persons. The two cow clause prevented the ordinance from giving complete protection, he contended. Alderman Carnot objected to the ordinance because of the section requiring a $3 license fee for all dealers. This amount was not high enough, he said.

"Although the license fee is rather low and probably does not give as complete protection as it might, I am in favor of the ordinance because it gives the city power to enforce milk sanitation," Mayor Fargo said.

Alderman E. Brewster presented the ordinance for passage. He said that the ordinance could be amended in the future if it was found necessary.

Aid Is Possible
That there is a possibility of receiving aid in building a bridge over the overflow creek was reported by Alderman Smith. He said that according to a letter received by the water and light department from Major M. Tripp concerning raising the proposed wall about the municipal building, the government classifies the creek as part of the river proper. Mayor Fargo agreed that aid may be obtained in bridging the creek.

Joseph LeFevre, city attorney, said the matter was taken up with the state highway department engineers some time ago, when it was said that no help would be given for this purpose. Mayor Fargo said the city might also obtain aid from the state highway department on a bridge across the tall race canal as highway 55 is routed over it.

Mayor Fargo discussed having the contractor of the bridge build the wall about the municipal building. This could be done at a low cost, he said. There are many large stones in the south approach to the bridge and the contractor would have equipment to handle these readily. Arrangements could be made to have home labor used on the project. Plans and specifications will be drawn up immediately and the work will be done under supervision of the electric and water department.

Favor Kaukauna Labor
The council appointed Mayor Fargo to make arrangements with Meyer Construction company to employ Kaukauna labor on the bridge. He will appoint a man to be in the contractor's office with a list of the city's unemployed, and when a man is needed suggestions will be made by him.

Installation of the old bridge railing along Legion park on Oak-st also was discussed. Mayor Fargo said that it would be a good plan to place the old railing there as a safeguard. He believed it could be installed so it would be ornamental. Alderman Cooper said that the railing could be set up just back of the stone wall with posts sunk in concrete. This would not cost much and would be better than putting a concrete coping along the wall, he pointed out. Alderman Bert Roberts said that a motorcycle officer should be hired to stop motorists from speeding over the Wisconsin-ave bridge when traffic is detained on it. There are many children on the island whose lives would be endangered unless some precautions against speeding are taken. Signs ought to be put, he said, and cars should be made to wait off the lower end of the bridge when a boat is passing. This would leave the bridge open for the fire truck in case of an alarm on the north side while Oak-st is closed to traffic with the building of the new bridge.

May Buy New Car
Bids for a new car for the city nurse will be advertised for by the council. Bids must be in by April 6. An allowance on the old car is expected to be made. The matter was brought before the council by Alderman Roberts, who said that the repair bills for the present nurse's car are too large to keep it in running order.

William Gantter requested a place of practice for the newly organized city band. More than 30 members have joined the organization. He said that he was unable to get the auditorium, and asked if the council chambers could be closed on Sunday afternoons.

Alderman Cooper said he did not favor granting the city hall regularly to the band or any other organizations. He said that it was all right for a party or group to use the hall in case of emergency, but he did not believe it ought to be given out regularly to any group. Mayor Fargo stated that since the council chamber belongs to the city it ought to be open to use to any group any time it is available. The matter was referred to the

"Follow Doctor's Advice" says Cramm of Miami

P. S. Cramm
Miami, Fla.—"I used to think of Pluto Water only as a prompt relief for constipation," writes P. S. Cramm, "until I had a talk with my doctor about it. He recommended Pluto Water to me as a year-round preventive of constipation. And the treatment he prescribed is simple—a small quantity of Pluto, diluted in plain hot or cold water, each morning upon arising. I follow his advice regularly, and I cannot recommend Pluto Water too highly."

Your Doctor Recommends it, too

Follow your doctor's advice, too. Don't wait till you are suffering for it before taking Pluto Water. Follow the course prescribed by Mr. Cramm's doctor—and be free from the dangers and pains of constipation.

Pluto Water is bottled at French Lick Springs, Ind., and is sold at drug stores and fountains everywhere.
